Guard Prosperity, Truman Asks

Housing Lag Hit By Dewey

Blames Dems For Shortage

(By United Press)

President Truman today carried his election campaign into Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's front yard with a plea to voters "not to upset the apple cart" of present day prosperity.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey struck back by blaming the current housing shortage on the Democratic New Deal today. He said it failed to keep pace with the pre-war housing needs.

The GOP presidential candidate drove to New York today from Pawling for the dedication of the Gov. Alfred E. Smith housing project to which the state of New York will lend $28,000,000.

Without mentioning his GOP rival's name, Mr. Truman reminded a crowd of 5,000 who turned out to hear him in the rain at Albany, N. Y., that New Yorkers are now three times more prosperous than they were under the last Republican regime.

Mr. Truman rapped the 80th Congress for "hamstringing" his administration's efforts to combat rising prices. He said New Yorkers in 1930 had an annual income of $8,000,000,000. In 1942, he said it had jumped to $23,000,000,000.

Dewey, in a speech prepared for delivery at 4 p. m. (EST) at ground-breaking ceremonies, apparently was well aware that President Truman, his Democratic opponent, has belabored the Republicans for their housing policies.

CITES FAILURE

He pointed out that in the latter part of the 193's, housing experts said 1,200,000 new homes should be built every year.

"They were not built," he said. "Instead, if you combine all the building of the three years in 1937, 1938 and 1939—the total was only enough to meet one year's needs."

He called on labor, industry, bankers and all levels of government to get together on a coordinated national housing program.

"It must be the kind of program that can be agreed to and can be consistently followed," he said. "That kind of agreement is not impossible to get. With competence, firmness and real encouragement on the part of government, we can get it."

Prior to leaving for Pawling, Dewey recommended to the state civil service commission that capitol workers be given time off to give the visiting president "a good welcome."

'April' Rain Arrives Late

"April Showers" were forecast by the weatherman today. Mansfielders had a foretaste of wet weather earlier today, but by noon the sun had slipped out from behind the clouds.

The forecaster said the mercury would climb Saturday, adding that thundershowers of last night are "very unusual for October."

Said he: "In fact it is only a rare occasion that we have any thundershowers in October."

The Mansfield high yesterday came at 2:30 p. m. when the temperature was 65 degrees. Today's low was 40, at 2:30 a. m. In Chicago the temperature was 48 and in Miami (that's in Florida) 83.

Motorship Feared Lost

SAN DIEGO, Calif. —(AP)— The motorship Malibu Inez with 14 persons aboard is feared lost in the wake of a tropical storm off the tip of Cape San Lucas 800 miles south of here.

After the vessel sent out an SOS last night, the commercial vessel, Empire State covered the distress area and reported that it was unable to sight any sign of the Malibu Inez, the coast guard reported.

The Malibu Inez, a chartered ship, carried 13 men and women. It left Long Beach, Calif., last August to visit Cocos island in a search for pirate loot.

FRIEND OF TUDOR — Lillian Weaver (above), 30, of Columbus, Ohio, is shown in the Clark county jail in Springfield, Ohio, where she was questioned (Oct. 6) in connection with her admission that her boy friend, Dwight David Tudor of Columbus, had told her of killing Mary Ann Page, 14, of Springfield. Police say she admits cleaning Tudor's blood-stained trousers. (AP Wirephoto)

Grand Jury Called In Murder Case

Ohioan Held Without Bond

SPRINGFIELD — (INS) — The Clark county grand jury met in a hurried special session today to decide what charges to bring against confessed child-slayer Dwight D. Tudor, boy-friend of a Columbus police clerk who admitted destroying his earlier police record.

Tudor is being held without bond or charge in connection with the slaying of 14-year-old Mary Ann Page of Springfield last Sunday night.

Miss Lillian Weaver, 30, former night record clerk at the Columbus police station, is being held as a material witness. She said Tudor told her he had killed a Springfield girl but she didn't believe him.

Clark County Prosecutor Stanley N. Husted said he planned no action against the divorce. His stand was echoed by Columbus Police Chief Charles M. Berry. Miss Weaver resigned her position after she was cited for "departmental irregularities."

Husted added yesterday to the first bare announcement that the handsome Tudor, twice divorced and once convicted of non-support, had confessed killing the young girl with a .22 calibre rifle.

The prosecutor quoted Tudor, a Columbus filling station operator, as saying:

"I probably would have fired the whole magizane, it I'd had it full. . . . I grabbed ahold of her leg and pulled her out. She didn't make a move."

Earlier, Tudor was quoted as saying he "blanked out" several times during the evening and that he shot the girl because she wouldn't get out of his car.

Pole Sitter Sets Record

SAN FRANCISCO —(INS)— Milton "Shipwreck" Van Nolan today claimed a new record for flagpole sitting—70 days, 23 hours and 33 minutes.

Before 10,000 onlookers, Milton climbed down from his perch atop a flagpole in a San Francisco used car lot yesterday.

"I feel swell," said Milton. He felt even better when the owner of the used car lot presented him with $1,000 and assured the ex-GI of a $50-per-week job for having broken the old flagpole sitting mark of 52 days set by Ozzie Osborne at Long Beach, Cal.

56-Year-Old Man Weds Girl of 13

McMINNVILLE, Tenn. —(INS) —Love still knows no age limits in Tennessee.

Mary Elizabeth Stanley, 13-year-old grade school pupil of McMinnville, announced yesterday she had married Truman Hester, 56, also of McMinnville, last week.

Registers 23,590 Voters

Board Reports Record Number

Voter registration in Mansfield and Madison township today stood at a record high —eclipsing the 1944 registration by 1,248.

The number of persons eligible to vote in the November election totals 23,590, compared with 22,342 for the 1944 presidential election, Election Board Clerk Thomas R. Zeigler reported.

Of the present total, there are 20,175 registered in Mansfield, including South Boulevards, and 3,415 in Madison township, without the South Boulevards registrants. South Boulevards has 413 registered voters.

Four years ago there were 19,024 registered in Mansfield and 3,318 in Madison township. In 1940, 21,179 persons were registered in the city and township.

MANY OTHERS ELIGIBLE

Actually there are many more persons eligible to vote in the county since residents outside Mansfield and Madison township are not required to register in order to cast ballots.

The number registered in each ward:

First, 4,881; Second, 3,628; Third, 4,197; Fourth, 1,803; Fifth, 2,080; and Sixth 3,151.

Workers of the Dupli-Print service started today to prepare registers of voters for each precinct, which carry names of qualified voters.

These lists will be posted at each precinct polling place in the city and township for 12 days before the election.

Ask Backing For Plan

Groups Seek to Curb Use of Decorations

The Mansfield Ministerial association will be asked to back a proposed city ordinance regulating use of Christmas and other decorations in public buildings where they are fire hazards.

This was agreed upon by nine delegates of the City Insurance board who called upon Fire Chief L. J. Steele today to "pledge their assistance and cooperation in the field of fire prevention." The meeting is held on the anniversary of the famous Chicago fire in 1871.

Chief Steele told the board members that "we are getting wonderful cooperation from contractors and architects in the city."

"I'm disappointed, however, in the efforts to curb use of Christmas evergreens. I've had pledges from the Chamber of Commerce and the Insurance board that they'd back an ordinance regulating the decorations, but several churches have stymied us."

The chief indicated that he did not want the measure approved by council until all civic groups pledged their support.

The proposed measure would prohibit natural foliage (including evergreens), cellophane in window decorations, natural cotton trimming, decorations hung on ceilings, and paper decorated electric bulbs in assembly halls, churches, schools, hospitals, banks and all other places of public assembly.

Child Welfare Staff Criticized Sharply

(Editor's Note: This is the second in a series of stories on a survey of child welfare conditions in Richland county recently completed by the State Welfare Department).

Heavy criticism is leveled at the staff in charge of Richland county's child welfare program in the State Welfare department's survey which has just been made public.

The county Child Welfare board is charged with giving its attention "primarily to institutional care." The report then goes on:

"The board's activities have been seriously limited by the lack of a sufficient well-qualified staff, a 50 per cent reduction in the administration staff being made in 1947.

"The positions of executive secretary and superintendent of the children's home have been combined as have the positions of case worker and matron of the home.

"Neither of the two have had training or experience as child welfare workers. They get along well with the children and are sincere in carrying out their responsibilities.

"Sufficient care was not exercised in selection of some of the personnel employed by the board. The staff is limited as in number and qualifications for their positions. Hiring competent staff is a wise investment in any program."

The survey recommends a full time executive secretary, a home superintendent, as many as two case workers, and a home matron, plus other workers at the Home. The board's office should be downtown, case records should be more adequately maintained, the report says.

"The employment of an adequate number of skilled persons is the best guarantee that the wards of the board will grow up as independent, productive citizens," the survey continues.

"A greater share of the tax dollar should be spent for child welfare if full responsibility for dependent and neglected children is to be met, but the increase should be for services, not for buildings.

"There is no need for increasing institutional care, but, instead, a reduction in the number of children given institutional care is recommended. Commissioners should consider posible economies to offset increased costs, such as centralized purchasing for all county institutions, centralized food production and processing, and centralized laundry services.

"Compared to other counties of similar size and characteristics, the present expenditure for child welfare is not large. In 1947, Richland county spent $8.50 per $10,000 of its tax duplicate for child welfare while other counties spent as much as $6.50 per $10,000 of the tax duplicate for that purpose.

"If current revenues are insufficient, consideration should be given to the issuance of bonds for building improvements, and to the passage of a tax levy for operating expenses.

"Preventive and protective services for children to prevent juvenile court action and family breakdown is not being provided because of an insufficient staff. There is insufficient personnel for follow-up work after a child has had institutional care.

EMERGENCY CARE BAD

"Protective services for children should not have to be handled by the Humane society. The present setup for emergency care is limited and not satisfactory. Commissioners will have to make new arrangements for a detention home after Jan. 1 as the Salvation Army has advised its facilities will not be available thereafter, but that should remain under the responsibility of the juvenile court.

"Children are accepted for the Home on the basis of expediency rather than on the basis of needs of the individual child. As a result, children are taken in who cannot profit by the experience.

"Limitations of the staff in

France Battles Strikers

Troops Move Into Factories

(Compiled from Wire Dispatches)

PARIS — Heavily armed French troops, security guards and police used tear gas and moved into factories and railway stations today to eject sit-down strikers.

In northern France, soldiers used tear gas to drive the strikers from steel factories.

Nevertheless, the strike wave, allegedly inspired by communists, continued to spread to miners in the south and among railwaymen.

In a clash at Micheville, near Nancy, 10 persons were injured when some 500 troops hurled tear gas bombs into a seized factory and ouster strikers.

It was the first major clash since the communist-controlled general confederation of labor led 350,000 coal miners out on strike Monday and touched off a series of walkouts involving railroads, docks, textile mills, public utilities and other industries.

GUARDS, TROOPS USED

Some 200 troops in battle-kit supported by three companies of security guards totaling about 300 men launched the attack against strikers occupying the Micheville plant at dawn.

Both strikers and security guards were among the injured. Several guards were taken prisoner by the strikers.

Police also captured without fighting the railroad station at Chalons sur Marne which had been held for 36 hours by striking rail workers forcing all trains from Paris to the east to make a three-hour detour.

Merchant seamen walked out in French ports today, raising the number of idle to 500,000.

Ohioan Gets 2-Year Term

Found Guilty Of Manslaughter

PRINCE GEORGE, B. C. —(AP)— An assize court last night sentenced Gustav Wiegner, 24, of Dayton, O., to two years less one day in prison for the killing of John McComas, 52, also of Dayton.

The salesman was convicted on a reduced manslaughter charge after a jury had deliberated three hours.

Justice Norman Whittaker, trial judge, made no recommendations for the future of Louise McComas, 13, the victim's daughter.

Wiegner, who said he shot McComas accidentally while hunting squirrels, told the court he did not have intimate relations with the girl.

"I pulled her to the edge of the woods after the shooting, and told her to take off her sweater. He told the jury. He then ordered her to disrobe, he said.

"She realized what I wanted," he said, "and pleaded with me: 'Think of your wife and my daddy. I have my own life ahead of me.'" Wiegner testified:

"I never touched the girl. I had no relations with her whatsoever."

Wiegner testified the fatal shot was fired accidentally as he and McComas were hunting squirrels.

Officers To Be Chosen

Ohio Water Works Group Closes Sessions Today

The Ohio Section of the American Water Works association will elect officers for the coming year at the closing session of its two-day meeting at the Mansfield-Leland hotel today.

Last night, the 200 members heard an address by L. H. Enslow, president of the AWWA, and were entertained by the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, Inc., which presented minstrels. Common Pleas Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch was master of ceremonies.

F. H. Waring, senior sanitary engineer of the Ohio department of health, was given a Fuller award for "outstanding service in the waterworks field."

Mayor Roy W. Vaughn welcomed the delegates in the opening session yesterday. Waring spoke on the significance of nitrates in water supplies.

B. V. BeVier, city sanitay engineer, told the convention about the Clear Fork water works supply project. He said Mansfield's water supply was in the process of being developed to deliver 9,000,000 gallons of water a day. The output now is about 6,000,000 gallons.

RATE BOOSTS SEEN

In the afternoon session Ray Fuller, consulting engineer, spoke on the effects of inflation on the operation of water works. He said increased labor and material costs made it inevitable that water companies everywhere would have to increase rates. His speech was followed by a discussion of the problem.

Other speakers of the afternoon included C. V. Youngquist, chief engineer of Ohio Water Resources board, who told the group of the results of the quality of water survey in Ohio, and Dr. E. S. Merriam, who discussed the water supply problem in Marietta.

Three different discussion groups met to talk over problems pertaining to water supplies.

Seniors Back Celebration

Prairie Schooner, Prospectors to Join Parade

A Prairie schooner and scores of masquers garbed as pioneers will be one of the highlights of the Help Hunt Halloween parade this year.

The novel addition to the parade is an outgrowth of a meeting yesterday afternoon when the 49ers, Senior high school's graduating class, voted in their executive session to back the "Help Hunt Halloween" celebration and aid Mrs. Ada Hunt Doerr in making it the biggest festival in years.

Following the precedent set last Christmas when senior class members made such a smashing success of the first community carol sing, this year's class, headed by Tom Swisher, decided to start their year's community service program by getting into the planning for the annual Halloween parade on Monday, Nov. 1.

In keeping with their name, the 49ers, executive committee members decided yesterday to enter into the parade a Conestoga wagon, prairie schooner indicative of the days when prospectors took the trail to the west for gold.

Costumed as pioneers, the Senior class will add considerable color to the annual merry line of masqueraders when they march through Mansfield's downtown streets.

Monday, Tom Swisher will confer with Mrs. Doerr relative to further plans for the senior class' share in the "Help Hunt Halloween" planning. It is probable that class members will start a campaign to get other civic and industrial floats entered.

This year's senior class numbers 366 students. If they turn out for the parade "to a man" it will make this year's tribute to Fred Hunt, the man who began the Halloween celebration 40 years ago, a memorable one in the long line of gay and city-wide events.

As usual Mrs. Doerr will carry out the annual plans for giving prizes for the best, funniest, and most unusual costumes and will provide music for the dance at the Coliseum afterwards.

High school bands in the area will be asked to march, adding their colorful uniforms to the array of fancy costumes. In addition, Mrs. Doerr will hire an orchestra for the dance.

Tom Swisher said yesterday, that he would try to get a musical aggregation from Senior high school to join in the parade.

What further plans the Senior class will take over from Mrs. Doerr will be determined in that Monday afternoon meeting.

SUSPECT — Wayne County Prosecutor James N. McNally will ask a warrant charging Carl Bolton (above), 39, and two unidentified persons with attempt on the life of United Auto Workers president Walter P. Reuther last April 20. Martin Highlight Of Rally

Seventeenth district Republicans will stage their biggest rally of the campaign tonight when House Speaker Joseph Martin jr., comes to Mansfield to make his only Ohio talk of his current campaign tour.

More than 1,000 persons are expected to jam the John Simpson auditorium to hear Martin and other GOP candidates for major state and district offices. The meeting will open at 8 p. m..

Martin, who was a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination last summer, is considered one of the party's best campaigners.

Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch will be chairman of the meeting. Local candidates will be introduced and a number of state officials will speak briefly.

STATE MEN TALK

Among them are Attorney General Hugh S. Jenkins, Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel, State Treasurer Don Ebright, and Lt. Gov. Paul Herbert, candidates for re-election.

Others who will speak briefly are Judge Robert M. Putnam of the Fifth District Court of Appeals, and State Senator Ralph A. Winter.

Martin will be introduced by this district's representative in Congress, J. Harry McGregor, of West Lafayette, who seeks re-election.

Martin, who has been speaker of the House since January 1947, was due to arrive in Mansfield at 5 p. m. today from Hammond, Ind.

Huge Crowds Greet Teams

CLEVELAND — (UP) — The cocky Cleveland Indians and the grim-faced Boston Braves arrived in Cleveland, hours late, for the third game of the world series today.

The Braves arrived first, were greeted by a huge crowd estimated at 10,000 at the Terminal and went to their hotel. The Indians' train got in more than two hours later and the players went directly to the ball park. They arrived at 10:10 a. m.

It was a dismal day with a sprinkle of rain falling, but the weatherman promised it would not be serious enough to cause postponement of the game.

Chicago Court Clerk Murdered

CHICAGO—(UP) William John Granata, 42, Republican candidate for clerk of the Cook county (Chicago) circuit court, died early today of injuries which police said he apparently suffered in an attack by an unknown assailant.

Granata, a brother of State Sen. Peter C. Granata and former GOP committeeman of one of Chicago's tough west side wards, was found in a pool of blood in front of the Skyline club where he had been living temporarily in the loop.

NAVY MASSES SHIPS

WASHINGTON —(UP)— The Navy announced today that 65 ships, 30 aircraft squadrons and 31,000 men will mass in the North Atlantic Nov. 1 to train under "wartime conditions."

Lie Calls Vishinsky To Parley

Two Council Seats Filled

PARIS — (INS) — United Nations Secretary-General Trygve Lie took a major step today believed aimed at a compromise solution of the east-west Berlin crisis.

He called Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky into confernce soon after the Russians surprisingly had abandoned an attempt to obtain membership for another satellite nation on the U. N. security council.

The general assembly, in plenary session, voted to place Norway, Cuba and Egypt in council seats which become vacant on Jan. 1.

It was understood that Lie summoned Vishinsky to lend the powerful pressure of his important position to efforts by the smaller nations on the security council to reach a Berlin compromise.

The understanding is that this would embrace a simultaneous lifting of the Soviet blockade and convocation of the big four council of foreign ministers.

SOLUTION POSSIBLE

Such a solution presumably would satisfy both the western powers and Soviet Russia. The issue seems to have boiled down to whether the blockade should be lifted before the big four meet or vice versa.

Although there were two U. N. plenary sessions, it was a day of behind-the-scenes confernces in the Palais de Chaillot equivalent of "smoke-filed rooms."

In the security council election, Norway and Cuba were elected speedily on the first ballot.

A stiff contest developed between Egypt and Turkey for the third seat, and Egypt won out on the fourth ballot.

U. S. Drops 'Soft' Talk

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The United States appears today to be casting aside the last restraints in its propaganda war with Russia.

From two top officials comes evidence the day of soft talk toward the Soviet Union has given away entirely to a new period of blunt statements unvarnished by the familiar phrases of diplomacy.

In Washington, Undersecretary of State Robert A. Lovett revealed he has received orders from Paris to "debunk" the latest Russian proposal for dealing with atomic energy. These orders presumably were given by Secretary of State Marshall himself.

And in Durham, N. H., Assistant Secretary of State Charles E. Saltzman declared in a speech the Soviet rulers since the end of the war have made this plain:

"That their real aim is world domination through the instrumentality of communism and that they will stoop to any stratagem of coercion, subterfuge, duplicity or double dealing that serves their purpose."

Speaking before the University of New Hampshire, Saltzman thus used some of the harshest words ever applied to the Soviet Union in recent years by a top state department official.

The assistant secretary in charge of occupied areas said the United States hopes to win the conflict with Russia "this side of war—by patience, calmness, and spiritual fortitude."

But, he added, it may not be possible to avoid war, although the government is proceeding on the assumption that it is possible.

Pea-Shooter Goes Modern

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The arsenal of the nation's small fry has a new not-so-secret weapon.

No longer will exponents of the schoolroom art of pea-shooting have to use outmoded single-shot equipment.

The U. S. patent office today issued a patent on a rapid fire, magazine-loading pea-shooter invented by Edwin W. Helberg, of Chicago, and Vernon C. Helberg, of Evergreen Park, Ill.

Library Adds Valuable Reference Books

The Mansfield Public Library has added a number of new books to its reference collection to meet the increasing demand for books on business and industrial subjects, Miss Anna Evans, reference librarian, said today.

The reference department also has a number of other books in its collection which represent the finest scholarship and which have been carefully selected to meet community needs, Miss Evans said. The library is able to shelve only about one-half its collection in the reference department due to lack of space.

The new books now on display in the reference department, include:

"Ohio Directory of Directors and Corporations, 1947-1948." This book, the first of its type and coverage published in the past 10 years, gives the names of corporation presidents, sales-managers, advertising men, and credit men with their addresses and corporation connections.

"International Industry Yearbook, The Encyclopedia of Industrial Progress, 1948," edited by Lloyd J. Hughes. This is a promising new reference book which may be used not only for specific information, but as a comprehensive account of current technological progress achieved in the fields of engineering and industry.

"Mineral Resources of the United States," by the staffs of the Bureau of Mines and Geological Survey, is a factual summary of the United States at the present time. It is the most comprehensive appraisal of the nation's mineral resources ever made. It also contains discussions of the more important minerals.

Why Do They Want To Be President?

Highest U. S. Office Is Gruelling Job

WASHINGTON (AP)—With the presidential campaign nearing the home stretch and 11 avowed candidates straining every nerve to emerge the winner, the office stacks up as about the most sought-after thing in America.

Yet, seasoned observers here who have seen the job of chief executive develop into the toughest assignment that can be wished on a man are inclined to the view that it is a good thing that anybody still is willing to stick his neck out and undertake it at all.

In fact, some of the members of the elite press corps that covers the White House profess to heave a sigh of relief that the Democrats' Truman seems to want to continue on the job, and the Republicans' Thomas E. Dewey, the Progressives' Henry A. Wallace and the Dixiecrats' Strom Thurmond, and some seven other hopefuls are willing to give him a rest and take over.

The seven others probably will be much less known to most of the voters on Nov. 2 than the four mentioned. Among them is the dean of them all, Norman Thomas, carrying the Socialist standard for the sixth time.

The others include: Socialist Labor, Edward A. Teichert; Socialist Worker, Farrell Dobbs; Greenback, John G. Scott; Christian Nationalist, Gerald L. K. Smith; Prohibition, Claude Watson, and American Vegetarian, Dr. John Maxwell.

As governor of the largest state in the Union, it is figured that Tom Dewey is making his determined bid with his eyes open to the trials and tribulations of high public office. However, no man, except the lone living ex-president, Herbert Hoover, has the first-hand knowledge of Harry Truman of the buffeting a President takes.

He knows that whoever gets the nod from the electorate when the ballots are totalled up in the early morning hours of Nov. 3, immediately will be virtually "taken into friendly custody" by a group of earnest young men who as representatives of Uncle Sam himself are dedicated to seeing that the chief executive is thoroughly protected, even from his own folly and bravado if necessary — the secret service.

IN 'FISH BOWL'

The successful candidate will have ceased to exist, for the time being, as a private citizen. He will live in the "gold fish bowl" known as the White House, and be constantly under the scrutiny of the public to which he has given himself. Not for an instant can he escape publicity.

He will be figuratively chained to the most overburdened desk in the world, and when he does succeed in sneaking away for short trips, the bags of mail and official pouches will follow like his shadow.

When the tumult of the campaign dies away in the next few weeks, the rest of us can turn back to our regular duties.

Not so for the winner in the biggest political sweepstakes on earth. He will have a few precious weeks in which "to get his own affairs in order." And it is just as grim a proposition as that.

Then is the time when perhaps Dwight Eisenhower will pat himself on the back for exercising good judgment as he keeps the wheels of Columbia university turning, and unsuccessful aspirants like Harold Stassen, taking over the leadership of the University of Pennsylvania, and Senator Robert A. Taft, tidying his desk for another big session in Congress, may thank their stars that the lightning did not strike them after all.

This is no joking matter with many of the most careful students of the office of President, however. Here in the nation's capital there are those sober observers, who after witnessing an ever-increasing number of able men say that they would under no circumstances tackle the job, wonder if the time will come when it actually might go begging.

New Light-weight Aluminum Foil Suit Protects Firemen

DAYTON— (U.P.) —Development of a light-weight suit made of aluminum foil laminated to a cotton backing that will allow fire fighters to stand on the edge of a roaring fire without injury was disclosed today by the air Materiel Command's aero-medical laboratory at Wright-Patterson air force base.

The AMC said three volunteers braved a roaring fire fed by 300 gallons of gasoline to test the new clothing. The test was one of a series being conducted to determine the relative safety and heat resistant qualities of various types of fire-fighting clothes.

The suit developed at the AMC laboratory employs the principle of heat reflection and is designed for use by structural fire fighters who are exposed to very high degrees of heat. It is not designed to be worn into the flames.

The entire suit, the AMC said, weighs under eight pounds. It consists of trousers, zippered jacket, foil covered rigid helmet, gauntlets, and spats zippered over ordinary rubber overshoes. The eyepiece, made of high heat resistant glass onto which gold has been evaporated and the whole laminated with vinyl resin, will withstand over 2,000 pounds of shock and 2,000 degrees of heat.

During the test, the three volunteers advanced on a pit of flaming gasoline which simulated conditions existing during a fire following an airplane crash. Thermocouplings attached to their bodies recorded changes in body temperature.

The foil laminate suit was found to give its wearer the greatest comfort and protection and suffered the least damage of two other types of suits worn in the tests, the AMC said.

He then appealed.

3—In Memoriam

IN MEMORY of my husband, Clarence Harso
So sad and sudden came the call,
Without a chance to say farewell
How often do I sit and think
We couldn't say goodbye before you closed your eyes
No one knows of my longing,
No one sees me weep
I shed my tears from an aching heart
While others sleep
Sadly missed by Wife and Children

NIGHT AUCTION SALE!

85 Holstein Cows and Heifers 85
Registered and grade closeup and fresh.

At my farm on U. S. Route 42, halfway between Delaware and Plain City, Ohio.

Thursday Night, October 14

7:00 P. M.—Lunch Served

Half of this offering is first and second calf heifers, the balance young cows. All either fresh or closeup.

The outlook for winter milk prices is for a continued strong market. The present bumper crop of feed can be most profitably converted into cash through milk production. The supply of good quality heifers and young cows is very limited and replacements will be harder to make as the season progresses. These cows are Canadian born and bred, and are easily acclimated to our climate. They are all bred to Canadian sires of approved merit. Some have Records of Production that are the envy of all dairymen. Others are capable of doing so if given an opportunity.

The grade cows and heifers are also Canadian bred and the same opportunity is theirs.

A majority of the offering is calfhood vaccinated.

Calves sold separately and guaranteed to live for one week after sale date.

This is a good time to obtain the 1949 4-H Club project calves.

All registrations transferred free of charge. Four generation pedigrees furnished. State Laboratory Tested.

Guaranteed to be as Represented

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Outlook Good For Continued Prosperity, States C. of C.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The immediate outlook for continued prosperity is "very strong," the U. S. Chamber of Commerce reported Thursday.

The report, prepared by Dr. Emerson P. Schmidt, the Chamber's director of economic research, is optimistic in tone though it says some "soft spots" are beginning to appear in the national economy.

"If, as investment in manufacturing facilities begins to shrink, the investment funds can be diverted into housing and service establishments, prosperity is certain to continue," the Chamber said.

"The immediate outlook for ceiling or capacity production and employment is very strong."

Secretary of Treasury John W. Snyder said recently that he looks for continued prosperity for years ahead. He explained that "we have only begun to tap the billions of savings built up during the war years."

And Harvard Economist Sumner H. Slichter believes that even after three boom years, the country is in a "remarkably sound position."

The Chamber of Commerce report noted as a favorable sign that although profits are high, business concerns are continuing to borrow additional funds, and no income is being hoarded.

The Chamber said indications are that consumers will get a break soon in the price of "soft" goods, provided a fourth round of wage increases can be avoided. Another general pay rise, the report said, "would simply pay out more purchasing power, which would tend to raise prices or at least prevent their dropping."

Mine Chief Aims at 'Share-Work' Goal for Lean Years

States Past Errors Must Be Avoided

Proposes Job Stabilization

CINCINNATI —(AP)— The coal industry today was on notice that John L. Lewis has another major contract aim for the near future—a share-the-work program for lean years.

Lewis disclosed his goal to the 3,000 delegates to the United Mine Workers convention. He said it already was being tried out on a small scale in the anthracite field.

But he could not get his job stabilization plan across in the soft coal industry up to now, he said, "simply because there is no national leadership in the bituminous industry."

Nevertheless, he added, if conditions get so tough—in the event of a depression—that the stability of the contract is threatened, "the UMW itself may find it necessary to advise our members how many days a week they need to work."

"We have that contractural right," he said, "because the contracts are written to permit that."

The last two contracts have provided the diggers will work only when "able and willing." The present pact expires next June 30.

This stabilization of employment, he said, "is a matter of self-preservation for our mine workers: it is a matter of self-preservation for the investors in the industry."

READY TO ACT

"So next year, in 1949 or at any other time, when evil days come upon this industry, you will find the United Mine Workers moving in, and if there are only three days work in this industry we will all have three days' work.

The union has profited, he said, from the "bitter experience" of the 20's.

Then, the coal operators "unable to sell their coal at a price whereby they could pay the scale, would close their mines for an indefinite period, and when our people were starved into submission locally they would undertake to operate their mines non-union at a lower wage scale."

"This in turn would create the necessity for other operators doing the same thing and reducing it to even lower scales. There was no resistance whatsoever from the coal companies, each operator being desperately inclined to work his own mine and pay whatever miserable pittance he could have accepted through these starvation policies."

Lewis said already there are signs of slackening demand in both the anthracite and bituminous producing regions.

"There are signs that competition will again be apparent in that industry, cutting prices, which in turn will induce them to ask for a lower wage scale.

County Child Welfare Staff Criticised In State Survey

number and qualifications makes it impossible to give the children opportunities for growth and development."

General atmosphere in the Home was commended, especially in the handling of the program of the school age children. Standards of personal cleanliness and housekeeping could be improved.

Recommendations include removal of pre-school children to family homes and reduction of the number of school age children in the Home. The board should make greater use of schools and institutions operated by other agencies.

The board has used foster homes in a limited manner. Funds for such care are inadequate. There's an insufficient case work staff to handle a foster home program.

"Adoptions in Richland county are handled for the most part by juvenile court, but an adequate staff should be set up so that adoption cases could be handled entirely by the board," the survey says.

"Funds should be available for temporary care in boarding homes to determine the desirability of adoption and to permit the careful selection of an appropriate home for each child.

"Sufficient case work service should be provided for the board to take over its proper responsibility in the care and protection of unmarried mothers.

"Some children of some groups, particularly Catholic and Negro children, have not received public care and support to the extent which would seem indicated.

"The board has arranged for Catholic children to go into Catholic foster homes at the board's expense. A comparison of the Negro population with the number of Negro children being taken care of indicates, apparently, that all Negro children in need of public care, protection or service, are not being brought to the attention of the Board.

"There are three Negro children under the care of the board at present. Negro children are not taken into the Home, but go to boarding homes.

"The Board cooperates with the St. Vincent de Paul Society in providing boarding homes for Catholic children at the request of the society. There are two Catholic homes here licensed to take children.

HEALTH PLAN URGED

"The Board should appoint a medical advisory committee to assist in developing and carrying out a well-developed health program.

"Recreational opportunities at the home show resourcefulness, but there is a need for a well-planned and supervised program. A good balance between free and organized recreation does not exist. Additional facilities and equipment are needed for both indoor and outdoor activities as well as leadership in planning the recreational program.

"Educational opportunities given the children under the care of Board are good, and cooperation with and from the public schools is constructive.

"Present policies of the Board in regard to religious training of children are constructive. Children in the home attend the church of their choice and are encouraged to take part in church group activities. Children are placed in foster homes of their own faiths."

The survey was made by Mrs. Vivian S. Ferguson, assistant supervisor of field services, and Miss Mary Paumier, child welfare consultant.

Church Needs Action Program, Says Work Mission Speaker

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Laboring men turn away from the church because it offers them words when they are looking for bread, a former CIO research director told the World Mission assembly today.

Kermit Eby, in a speech prepared for delivery before 3,000 delegates attending the largest Protestant conference in 23 years, said that Christianity can meet the challenges of communism only "by translating the abstract concepts of justice preached on Sunday into specific programs of action on Monday."

"If we would win those who live next to the stark realities of life, we cannot offer them simply 'pie in the sky, by and by,' he said in a prepared address. "The workers are turning away from the church because it offers them platitudes when they are looking for bread."

Eby, who left the CIO on Sept. 15 to join the University of Chicago staff, said he was "convinced the historical challenge of communism will (never) be met in conferences like this or in other gatherings of intellectuals." His talk opened the final day of the assembly.

"Frankly, it is my conviction," he continued, "that communism's challenge rests in the hope it offers to the depressed masses of the world. They, the naked, hungry and oppressed, are looking for an escape from their misery, and we or the communists will supply the answer to those oppressed of the world."

Eby, a former minister in Elkhart, Ind., called for a "counter-revolution" that is even "more radical and more humanitarian than the communist." Christians, he said, must be "more radical" in emphasizing job security, racial equality and peace.

Chief Albert Luthuli of the Zulu tribe, last night's main speaker, said that unless Christianity wins Africa now it never will. He said Christians must attain the same missionary standard in Africa as exists in other overseas regions.

"We especially need help in the field of education and social rehabilitation, with special emphasis on securing and training African leadership, both clergy and lay," he declared.

Sentenced In Looting

One man was convicted of petty larceny in municipal court Thursday and two traffic violators were fined. Charges against two other persons were dismissed.

Lester Barlow, 60, transient, was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in the workhouse for petty larceny. He pleaded guilty to the charge after having been arrested last night for ransacking cars.

He was found with pliers and a screwdriver on his person, police said. They had been taken from a truck belonging to H. E. Culler, North Main street road.

Manuel A. Trujillo, 35, Los Angeles, was fined $10 and costs for passing a school bus while the bus was discharging passengers. He was arrested last night and had posted a $25 bond for his appearance in court this morning.

James K. Heap, Bedford, forfeited a $25 bond when he failed to appear in court this morning. He was charged with speeding.

A charge of unsafe operation against Gable King, 216 North Franklin avenue, was dismissed. A charge of contempt against Acie Mills, 252½ North Main street, also was dismissed.

Oklahoma School Regents Offer Segregation Plan

NORMAN, Okla.—(U.P.)—The University of Oklahoma regents today paved the way to admit a Negro to the O. U. graduate school on a "basis of complete segregation."

The regents delayed final ruling on the application of G. W. McLarin, Oklahoma City Negro who asked to enter the graduate school, until their next regular meeting in November.

But they instructed Dr. George L. Cross to make plans so that classrooms and professors will be available to give McLaurin instruction individually.

The board also told Cross to ask the state regents for higher education or other state agencies for the money necessary to give McLaurin facilities equal to those afforded white students.

Prodded by a federal court ruling that Oklahoma must furnish equal graduate training to negroes, the regents met with Gov. Roy J. Turner and Atty. Gen. Mac Q. Williamson. Their decson, on a motion by T. R. Benedum, Norman was announced by Cross today.

Negro Editor Roscoe Dujee, a director of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said the NAACP would not agree to a delay in the case.

The NAACP has sponsored McLaurin's and other negroes' attacks on the university's "whites only" tradition.

ADOPTS FINNISH TOWN

MENTOR — (AP) — This Lake county village of about 2,000 has "adopted" the Finnish town of Suolahti and civic organizations have started a program to provide needed food and clothing for 3,700 Suolahti residents, who include some 800 displaced war refugees.

Grants Boost Ohio Pensions

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Additional federal grants will raise payments to Ohio old age pensioners to the highest level in the 14 years the program has operated, it was announced today.

Karl R. Rabb, chief of the division of aid for the aged, reported payments in September totaled $5,181,290 for 12,443 persons. The average was $41.97.

This itself was a record, Rabb said, while October checks will have further increases as a result of a raise in the ceiling on federal participation from $45 to $50. This increases the maximum aid payments from $50 to $55.

Railroads Object To FCC Move

Oppose Cut In Radio Frequency

WASHINGTON — (NS) — A spokesman for the nations railroads Thursday protested the proposed reallocation of radio frequency channels by the Federal Communications Commission.

J. M. Souby, chief counsel for the Association of American Railroads, argued before the commission against a proposed reduction from 60 to 41 frequencies for railroad use.

He criticized the commission's proposals for disregarding the use of radio by railways in the interest of public safety. He commented:

"If instead of reducing the present 60 railroad channels to 41, the commission should increase them to 100, the total allocation to the railroads would even then be equivalent to only a single television channel."

"Yet one of the cardinal principles by which the commission professes to be guided in making its allocation is that uses of radio which contribute to the safety of life and property deserve more consideration than its uses for purposes of mere convenience or amusement."

The hearings in the re-allocations are to continue for another week.

Newspaper publishers were expected to voice their objections to the re-allocation plan next Monday. The American Newspaper Publishers Association has protested that the plan will curtail or restrict their use of mobile telephone units for the transmission of news and photos.

In the allocation proposals, experimental wave lengths which had been used by newspapers have not been given permanent status.

Betterment of Child Care Advised

RESIDENTS of Mansfield and Richland county may well be appreciative of the thoroughness of the survey of this county's children's home facilities and associated problems, recently made by experienced representatives of the division of social administration of the state department of public welfare.

This survey, as has been explained, was made at the request of the board of county commissioners, and the 80 typed pages which are required to submit the report, evidence the time and effort given to gathering information and reaching conclusions on which recommendations are based.

While the report is of special interest, and concern, to the county commissioners, the county child welfare board, and the newly organized Richland county Child Welfare Council, its findings and recommendations are such as to make it desirable that everyone in the county learn about present conditions and recommendations for improvement.

The report, as a whole, will require careful study as to the practicability of various recommendations, but one point is made clear—this being that the present location of the children's home has advantages that outweigh those claimed by proponents of the idea of choosing another site several miles from the city, where children would not have such ready access to schools, libraries, churches, doctors, hospitals and recreational facilities.

Recognition is also given to the overcrowded condition of present quarters, with recommendation that the population be reduced approximately one-third by removing pre-school children to foster homes and confining admission to the home to school-age children "for whom group living would be a constructive experience."

It may be hoped that sufficient public interest will be aroused by revelations of this survey, and its recommendations, that a definite program for betterment will be formulated and carried through.

Mansfield Again In National Spotlight

ONCE AGAIN Mansfield is brought to national attention in a creditable way—this time by an illustrated article in the current issue of Life magazine devoted to a comprehensive presentation of the successful operation of Malabar Farm under the direction and inspiration of Louis Bromfield, who is introduced as "probably the only farmer in America who has written two dozen books, won a Pulitzer prize and habitually has breakfast in bed."

The article is interestingly written by John Bainbridge, and in addition to informational material it is enlivened by recital of many incidents that serve to reveal Bromfield characteristics as well as those of visitors to Malabar—estimated at approximating 15,000 a year.

Possibly without intent at disparagement, Bainbridge makes one statement, however, which might have been more diplomatically put. Speaking of Bromfield's early interest in farming, the writer says: "Owing to circumstances beyond his control, he was born in Mansfield, Ohio" —whereas, had pre-natal determination of a birthplace been possible, it seems entirely probable that Louie would have selected this very spot—for, after looking all over the world it is here that he chose to return for fulfillment of his lifetime ambition—the development of a farm which would serve to awaken other farmers to opportunities for betterment of agricultural methods and the great importance of soil conservation.

With Malabar Farm as a focal point, it seems regrettable that all of Richland county has not yet moved to gain a spread of public interest in the agricultural potentialities of many other parts of this county—a hint of lethargic attitude being seen in the failure to maintain creditable county fairs, when, in fact, this county should be able, year after year, to present the very best county fair in this entire northcentral Ohio area.

Prove Accident Rate Can Be Reduced

THE FACT that the accident rate among a given group of vehicle drivers can be cut as a result of a campaign for that purpose has been proved by the United States Army in the Philippines.

A dispatch from Manila gives figures which show a 50 per cent drop in traffic accidents and injuries. Only one traffic accident per 100,000 miles of army motor vehicle operation occurred during the first half of this year.

One recognized cause of motor accidents is the common habit of passing the buck. It is always the other fellow's fault, according to the participants in an accident. The driving public needs to be educated toward individual responsibility.

The driver who is always alert to the behavior of other drivers and of pedestrians is seldom involved in an accident. Eyes which miss nothing, on the road in front, on either side, or in the rear, together with a quick hand on the wheel and a sensitive foot on the brake, combine to make the best defense against accidents. A sense of individual responsibility is a prerequisite to safety.

Harvard Man In Yale Territory

A HARVARD man would not at first glance seem the ideal candidate to run for office in Yale territory, but the late Edward J. Lake of Connecticut proved that this notion is wrong. A famous football player in his college days, he scored the winning touchdown in Harvard's 1890 victory over Yale, the only one in 25 years. This did not stand in the way of his being elected to various offices in Yale-permeated Connecticut, and finally winning the governorship in 1920.

To date this is the only known instance in Connecticut of a candidate who overcame the apparently insuperable handicap of a Harvard education.

Raymond Moley's Analysis

Lack of Understanding Retards Recovery

AS A CANDIDATE Dewey and his prospective secretary of state have pointed out, the practical administration of foreign affairs is as important as the general policies under which our diplomacy operates. This is true because any policy, however enlightened, yields bad results if its application is left to clumsy and confused operators.

There is a vivid illustration in what is happening in Japan and Germany. Our policy is to restore the economies of those countries to a self-sustaining basis.

But the occupation authorities are operating on a theory of breaking up industries into units which can never efficiently serve the needs of Europe and Asia.

This is because the higher-ups in both places are military men with scant business experience and the lower-downs are zealous proponents of the New Deal theory that all bigness is bad.

Most Americans hate "trusts," and because they think "cartels" are "trusts" they hate them, too. There is need, however, to revise our concept of cartels in the light of their special place in the economies of Germany and of Europe.

It is characteristic of the economic confusion of the New Deal that the noted British economist, John Maynard Keynes, who inspired President Roosevelt with lend-lease theories, was one of the great exponents of cartelization in England.

Twenty years ago, Keynes visited Germany to study the structure of the German coal cartels. Shortly afterward, he publicly recommended the cartelization of the British cotton industry.

His argument was that the cartel principle was the only means of keeping Britain in the running against the competition of the highly concentrated Continental economy and the superior mechanical efficiency of America.

* * *

Helped By Agreements.

WHAT the European cartel does is to maintain minimum prices and set marketing quotas. Under other names, we are doing exactly the same thing with two-thirds of our agricultural production and with all our bituminous coal.

In practically all European countries agrements between big industries have been inevitable, and if Europe is to recover, they must be inevitable in the future.

The main reason for this is that marketing areas are very small geographically compared with those of America. In coal and steel, for example, German production was a good fraction of ours before the war, but in America the spread of the companies and their customers was 21 times as large.

Without industrial agreements in Europe, cut-throat competition would have resulted which could only have ended by the domination of one corporation over a whole industry.

Under agreements, not only competition but diversified control were maintained. The fact is that in prewar Europe the countries which developed cartelization agreements grew strong industrially, while in France, where individualism was strong, industries remained weak and in the test of war, inadequate.

We shall best serve the revival of peaceful industry in Europe and in Asia if we try to understand and promote the forms and concepts of industrial organization which are suited to those areas. This can be done while at the same time we keep a close control over any possible war potential.

Washington Calling

Air Force Optimists

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON — The thinking of top air force generals who believe that a war with Russia could be concluded victoriously within one to three months by a series of atomic-bomb attacks at least has been publicly put on the record. While this was done in such a way as to disclaim any responsibility at the top, it is nevertheless highly significant.

The strategy is disclosed in an article in the Air University Quarterly Review, issued by the USAF's air university at Maxwell Base, Alabama. It is signed by Col. Frederick L. Moore and Col. Cale O. Smith, both Air Force officers on active duty.

While the Review states that articles appearing in it "do not necessarily coincide with nor are they officially those" of the USAF, the strategy outlined parallels closely that advocated by Air Force policymakers. Naturally, the article is based on war with a theoretical "enemy," and the Soviet Union is not mentioned.

The claim is advanced that a very small number of bombers—perhaps only 300—could carry atomic bombs to the enemy's strategic centers in a series of concentrated attacks. These would destroy "a nation . . . just as surely as a man will die if a bullet pierces his heart and his circulatory system is stopped."

This is the line taken by the USAF policy chiefs in discussions with the joint chiefs of staff. What has not been known is that these discussions have evoked a hot argument.

In both the Army and Navy there are skeptics who doubt the extraordinary claims made by the Air Force. One of the most outspoken of these skeptics is Fleet Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of staff to the President.

* * *

Leahy has said bluntly on several occasions that he simply does not believe the claims of those who maintain that a lightning atomic war would pulverize the enemy's military drive.

The two air officers in their article argue that an "army in the field" cut off from supplies and facing starvation "is not an army to fear." This conveniently ignores the fact that Russian armies, invading Germany for the most part, lived off the land.

Leahy's bluntness has not endeared him to top brass in the Air Force. Inspired stories have recently appeared suggesting that President Truman was dissatisfied with his personal chief of staff and therefore disregarding his advice.

Another skeptic is Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chief of staff of the Army. Bradley is less blunt than Leahy but he is no less outspoken in the strategy discussions. He has expressed the belief that a war with Russia might last 30 years or longer, with the Air Force performing brilliant feats in the first few months.

As skeptics such as Bradley see it, the retaking of Europe would be a far more difficult task than it was in the war that ended three years ago.

That would require several years of intensive preparation by American industry and the military, with the possibility of interruption by bombing attacks.

In the two views—that of the air force and their doubting critics—there is an infinity of difference. As it was put by one of the participants in these heated discussions:

"You take your choice—thirty days or thirty years."

The Nation Today

What To Expect In UN

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — What's going to happen in the United Nations over the Berlin crisis?

Most likely: Nothing, although no one can say positively.

But outside of the UN—and as a result of all the arguments—the big powers may finally reach an agreement on Berlin.

This seems to be what you can look forward to:

1. Much talk. You'll probably be reading about the arguments for a month to come.

2. Then, simply by voting "No," Russia can block any action the other nations try to take against her, such as condemning her.

So, after all the talk, Russia can cancel it all out with a veto.

This will explain a little of the problem.

The case now is in the UN security council which has 11 members. They are:

The United States, Russia, Britain, France, China and Argentina, Belgium, Canada, Colombia, Syria and the Ukraine.

The first five, the Big Five—are permanent members of the council. The other six are just temporary.

All have one vote on any question the council considers. And seven of the 11 votes are needed to carry some questions. But—

Any one of the Big Five can kill the whole vote by simply voting "No" on any important question.

What kind of important question? Like condemning Russia for what it has done in Berlin or even demanding she stop it.

By this "No" vote—the veto power any one of the Big Five can block action by the security council.

And, when the security council is blocked, the UN is blocked.

In this case the United States, Britain and France complained to the council that Russia threatens world peace by blockading Berlin.

(Russia has refused to let the United States, Britain and France send supplies overland to their sectors of Berlin where they have troops and 2,500,000 Germans depending on the supplies).

Now those three powers—United States, Britain and France are reported to be getting ready to ask the council to demand that Russia end the blockade.

* * *

WHEN the talk is finished and voting time on that question comes, Russia can kill it all by voting "No."

That's why it was said at the beginning that nothing is likely to happen in the UN on the Berlin crisis.

For it's hard to picture Russia letting the council vote against her, since she can stop it.

But on Tuesday Russia said she would boycott the security council discussions of the Berlin crisis.

At voting time, if she doesn't vote at all, can her not-voting be considered a veto?

There's nothing in the UN charter which says that when one of the Big Five abstains from voting it must be considered a veto.

In the past couple of years, in fact, all of the Big Five did not vote on every question. And the council went ahead and voted. The staying-away of one of the Big Five was not considered a veto.

Although Russia has said it will boycott the discussions, when voting begins she can step up and veto everything.

Common sense at this point seems to say Russia will do that.

But what of the general assembly of the UN? The 58 members of UN all take part in the assembly. And there each has one vote. No one has a veto.

If the security council's vote is blocked by Russia, can't the assembly act? No. Unlike the security council, it can't order anything done. It can only recommend.

Ickes Volunteers Speeches For Truman

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Honest Harold Ickes, who sometimes wields a meat axe for a pen, and Harry Truman, who can be blunter than a concrete pavement, got along pretty well when they met at the White House this week.

Neither had seen each other since they parted in a blaze of verbal glory two and a half years before.

"I never held anything against you," the President told his ex-secretary of the interior. Obviously he was referring to some of the things Ickes wrote about him in his pungent column.

Probably Ickes could have said the same about some of Truman's harsh remarks, but he didn't. Instead he reminded his ex-boss about an incident which Truman had completely forgotten. It was in the early days of the Truman administration and referred to tidelands oil.

Ickes had never been able to get Attorney General Francis Biddle, liberal as he was, to bring an action before the Supreme Court to recover the submerged oil lands of California, Texas and Louisiana for the federal government. Nor had Truman's Attorney General Tom Clark yet moved. So Ickes laid the thorny problem right in Truman's lap. And without batting an eye, Truman promised action.

Next day at a cabinet meeting he carried out his promise. Asking Tom Clark when the tidelands-oil suit would be taken before the Supreme Court, Truman added: "I want it taken up right away."

It was one of the most controversial issues in the Far West, certain to lose votes, sure to rouse the undying ire of the big oil boys who had contributed to Truman's campaign. Nevertheless, the suit was brought and won.

This week Ickes reminded Truman of the forgotten incident, then volunteered to make some speeches pointing out that Truman had the courage of his convictions while Dewey had avoided putting certain controversial cards on the table.

* * *

Truman's Last Ride.

DESPITE the unfavorable political polls, Harry Truman is sure going down fighting.

He is scheduling another 100 speeches between now and election day, and sooner or later he hopes to step on enough of Dewey's toes to smoke him out and make him fight back.

Here is the wind-up for the last week of what will be the most vigorous campaign probably staged by any president in history:

Leave Washington Saturday, Oct. 23, with "whistle stop" speeches for three days en route to Chicago . . . Tuesday, Oct. 26, important speeches in Gary and South Bend, Ind., Toledo, Sandusky and Cleveland, Ohio . . . Oct. 27, a jump back to Pittsfield, Springfield, Worcester and Boston, Mass. . . . Next day, Hartford, New Haven, Bridgeport and Stamford, Conn. . . . Night of Oct. 28, a big rally in New York, following which Truman will leave for Kansas City for his final speech on Saturday, Oct. 30.

* * *

Under the Dome.

MICHIGANDERS are wondering why the Ford Motor Co. and General Motors haven't canceled the franchises of auto dealers Graff and Burgess, both indicted for violation of the Corrupt Practices Act . . . Atomic Energy Commissioner Louis Strauss will make an important speech on peacetime uses of atomic energy at the University of New Hampshire . . . Congratulations to Attorney General Tom Clark for naming a woman, Grace Stewart, to one of the top positions in the justice department. Mrs. Stewart is now executive assistant to the attorney general.

* * *

Vandenberg Gets Busy.

TOM DEWEY had to put heavy pressure on his old friend and onetime rival — Senator Arthur Vandenberg — to get Vandenberg to campaign for the Republican ticket.

Vandenberg, who prides himself on his bipartisanship, didn't want to make any speeches at all.

However, one of Van's close friends, ex-Senator John Townsend of Delaware warned him that unless every Republican got out and worked the Democrats were likely to capture the Senate.

If the Democrats get control of the Senate, Vandenberg was gently reminded, he wouldn't be chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee any more.

Note—Arthur is now campaigning.

* * *

Merry-Go-Round.

CONGRESSMAN Parnell Thomas has begun mailing out 10,000 special letters to New Jersey voters—at the taxpayers' expense—aimed to strengthen his shaky chances of re-election . . . When President Truman returned from his western campaign trip one of those waiting to greet him inside the White House grounds was his old bootblack friend—John Maragon of Kansas City . . . The President has been assured by his aides that he'll carry every state in the South (Southerners doubt it) . . . Roger Strauss, of American Smelting and Refining, whose father, Oscar Straus, was secretary of commerce under Teddy Roosevelt, is slated for a cabinet job under Dewey.

Embarrassing, Isn't It?

By KENNETH L. DIXON

WASHINGTON — These election year jitters are bad. Now they even have the capital's party-pitching people in a tizzy!

None of the ringleaders of Washington's famed cocktail and canape crowd know what to do about the forthcoming social season.

And the President isn't giving them any help.

All in all, it's been a bad year for the so-called social set — which actually functions as the biggest unofficial lobbying organization within the nation's capital.

Its troubles started long ago. The first faint clouds appeared some months back when a couple of congressional investigating committees discovered that many an active and working communist made some of his best contacts in Washington through attendance at big shot parties.

That particular phase of the investigation was stopped almost as soon as it had started. In the first place, there never was the slightest suggestion that any of the party-givers were communists or even had any party-line affiliations.

The infiltration of the alleged Reds was just one of those things which could happen at almost any big-scale Washington party where it's a canny hostess who can call half her guests by their first name.

In the second place, the probe was not pushed along those lines because to have done so might have uncovered the vast legislative lobbying enterprises involved in such parties.

Nevertheless, it gave a lot of the leading social lights — not to mention quite a few lawmakers—some unhappy hours until it became clear that that phase of the probe would not be pressed. For a time, it took almost an F. B. I. clearance card to get an invitation to previously wide-open capital parties.

* * *

Grab For Bandwagon.

THE NEXT problem for those addicted to pitching big social shindigs came when the word began to spread that the Republicans were more than an even money bet to cop the election.

That called for a complete revision of guest lists.

Hostesses who had been catering to the Democratic big shots for a good many years suddenly began to invite more and more Republicans to their sip-and-nibble sessions. And this transcended the quiet shift of social allegiance which came when the Republicans took over the Congress after the 1946 elections.

In many instances, the honor guests now became old-line G. O. P. leaders who currently had no official position, but who would be likely choices for executive jobs should the Republicans take over that branch of the government.

Having accomplished that shift, the capital's party-pitchers sat back and rested, figuring that, while it had been a tough year, when the Republicans won the election, they'd be home free with no hard feelings.

But now they're faced with a new embarrassment . . .

In Washington, the official so-called social season is just getting underway. It lasts through the winter, and in the upper brackets of the social hierarchy it is based upon the White House social schedule.

Without that schedule, which involves about a dozen state functions, it is almost impossible for a leading hostess to plan her parties.

At this writing, it seems that President Truman isn't giving out the schedule!

The result, of course, is that most of the ranking party-givers cannot plan to pitch any shindigs which might conflict with some as yet unannounced White House "command appearance" function.

One Man's Opinion

—By WALTER KIERNAN

SEN. TAFT'S pension plan for ex-presidents has no appeal for Democrats. . . . They prefer to keep their boy working at prevailing wages.

* * *

Taft feels that a pension of $25,000 a year might keep an ex-president from doing something drastic . . . like going to work.

* * *

And it might catch on . . . John L. Lewis already has proposed a candidate.

* * *

As I understand it, John is disappointed with the outcome of his last brush with the government. . . . Evidently he had expected to give his country more of his time and less of his money.

* * *

But John's power at the polls should not be underestimated. . . . In 1940 with scarcely any effort he swung his own vote to Willkie.

Good Bye To Old Car

By CALVIN A. BYERS

WE JUNKED the old car last week—a wrecker took it away ignominiously, with its rear hoisted up by derrick and winch.

For years it was ailing, yet in spite of the infirmities of age it kept going on—and on. Doors warped, windshield split, cushions a mass of broken, braided cross wires, rusty fenders, an irregular wobble to the axle—it still had a rebored engine, a good transmission, brakes recently relined, and a good radiator. It is barely possible that someone may rejuvenate it, and I may meet in on the road again.

Few folks will know how well it served its purpose. Since 1934—when it was manufactured—how many pleasure rides we have enjoyed! How warm it kept us against winter blasts—even without a heater! How many pleasant hours we rode along, in silence or informal conversation—no radio! How many travelers it gave a lift along their way—how many children hauled to school—how many loads of groceries brought home! How many states it traveled through—how often it pursued familiar lanes around the countryside!

Since 1913 when I got my first Model T, I have worn out 5 Model T's, a Dodge, a Plymouth, and at present am finishing off a "used" Ford V-8. Patience and sweet oil go far toward getting a man to his destination—I have been fortunate enough to have no wrecks, and no worse accidents, than a bent fender or a scraped bumper.

Once, in Washington, D. C.,—which is no place for greenhorn drivers—I was nearly mashed by a limited express street car. My wife yelled just in time, and I swerved and went right along the same direction as the limited—thus the bent fender. (That was the first time she saved my life.)

I carried my aged parents by the Model T, to visit friends and relatives in the old home state. Half fearful at first, they clung together in the rear seat—a quaint Dunkard couple, unused to the modern ways, conversing in Pennsylvania German about everything of special interest—proud of my skill in guiding the car through traffic. To this day, the sight of a Model T brings back pleasing memories—it was a humble conveyance that gave great satisfaction.

We are getting new windows soon for the Ford V-8. When it wears out—it was built in '35—I have no idea what model we shall be able to afford.

Mrs. Kasenkina's Story—No. 13

Soviets Punish Son For 'Sin' of Parents

By OKSANA S. KASENKINA
Edited by Isaac Don Levine

My joy at hearing from my son as soon as I came to Gorki lasted but a fleeting moment. Even before I had time to lay down my belongings in my sister's apartment, she dropped the ominous words:

"Oleg is in the NKVD's special Red Army detachment. He left his address."

I asked her to send a telegram to him telling him of my safe arrival. I knew he would come to see me at the first chance.

"What's this NKVD unit?" I inquired with trepidation. "Why isn't he in the regular army?"

Reluctantly my sister revealed what she had learned from Oleg, that the Red Army had organized under the supervision of the NKVD special [illegible] battalions for men, actors, slackers, and sons of political transgressors.

It was now clear that the military authorities had caught up with Oleg's family history. It is the ironclad Soviet practice to visit upon the innocent children [illegible] their parents.

"Wasn't it enough for them to kill my Demyan?" I cried out. "Must they also destroy my son?"

Within a week Oleg showed up in response to the telegram. He had gotten leave to come to bid me goodbye, and what with the traveling conditions at the time, he had only fifteen minutes left to spend with me before catching a return train.

IN SHOCK TROOP

The end of October. Snow was falling, a cold and penetrating wind was blowing. I expected Oleg to show up in uniform. My heart sank within me when I saw the boy still wearing his summer clothes and a pair of sneakers.

"What kind of a unit are you in?" I asked, holding back my tears with difficulty.

"There are all kinds in it, from riffraff to sons of bourgeois," Oleg explained. "It'll be a shock brigade."

"But why don't they put you in uniform? And why don't they give you training?" I cried.

"Mamochka, they are taking us to Vladimir where they promised [illegible] and then we will be all right," he tried to reassure me. But I could no longer restrain my emotions.

"Now don't you cry, and don't you waste your strength on pitying me. I know how to take care of myself," he continued to console me. "I want you to think of yourself and save me all the worry about you."

GETS LETTERS

Oleg went off, and I broke down watching him disappear into the sleet. He wrote to me from Vladimir that his detachment was being sent off to Moscow for equipment. After two days in the capital, where they were outfitted with winter uniforms, the special unit was dispatched to the Volkhov sector of the Leningrad front without any other preparation.

My son wrote me twice from Volkhov. He had not received there any military training of consequence. Already it was bitter cold. It was the beginning of one of the cruelest winters of the century. The Germans were desperately trying to encircle and take Leningrad. Against their powerful machine the Red Army was throwing into action, at least in one sector, Oleg's detachment consisting mostly of raw youths.

In December I received a note from the boy asking me to send him some zwieback. That meant that he was not getting enough to eat. I sent him a parcel of biscuits.

Then came a postal card. Oleg wrote that his group was preparing to carry out a very important mission and that the fate of many of the boys would depend upon its outcome.

That was the last word I had from him. The food parcel was returned to me unclaimed. On January 12 1942, I was called to the local office of the Commissariat of War. There I was handed the announcement:

"Oleg Kasenkin missing in action."

There was no further information. But at that instant I felt, only the way a mother can, that they had murdered my child as surely as if he had been shot in the back by the NKVD.

Yet I never abandoned hope that he would come back. During the ensuing years, while the war was still on and since its end, in the Soviet Union and in America, knowing that the Germans had taken millions of Russian prisoners, I kept myself going with the prayer that Oleg is alive and would turn up.

Throughout that fierce winter in Gorki, when the wounded from the Leningrad front began to pour in, filling all the hospitals and all the school buildings converted into hospitals, I was constantly on the alert for some message about my son.

I was one of many teachers, among whom there was a contingent from Leningrad, who had sought refuge in Gorki. All daytime school work was discontinued, but evening classes were improvised instead. I divided my time between giving courses at night and doing hospital relief work during the day.

SOLDIERS TALK

My job was to write up the medical histories of the cases lying as I do now in this marvelous American hospital in New York, with its fabulous cleanliness, equipment, care and humane personnel. I shudder to recall the neglect of our wounded and the gruesome sights I witnessed with a bleeding heart.

The catastrophe which Russian arms had suffered at the front, with the Germans at the gates of Moscow, Leningrad and in the depths of the Ukraine, loosened many tongues. Although every hospital had its vigilant commissars, the boys gave vent to the mood of the army.

"Where is our preparedness, for which we made all those sacrifices during the five-year plans?" they murmured. "Where is our equipment? Why couldn't they even provide us with enough food and cigarettes? Why weren't we ready?" were some of the questions raised.

"Imagine not having enough rifles!" one of the boys exclaimed. "We were suddenly thrown into action to meet a German attack with one rifle for every ten men."

It might have been the voice of my own Oleg. "Was that how he met his end?" was the thought that haunted me.

(Mrs. Kasenkina continues her story tomorrow.)

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, October 9

IT might as well be a weekend of pleasure-seeking and relaxation or spiritual development, since workaday matters are of such a complicated, peculiar and challenging a character as to make postponements of practical decisions desirable. Those in high places may be disposed to be suspicious, uncooperative and demanding and the personal proclivities may be toward dissembling or misrepresentation. Emotional drives or inner feelings also may mislead.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, may be confronted by a situation in which details may give much concern, involving complications, subtle inclination to deception, to misrepresent and otherwise tangle matters, and in such a manner as to arouse suspicion and resentment. It may be as well to sidestep vital decisions until the basis and complex have clearer perspective for real action. Emotional sway is fatal

A child born on this day may be disposed to complicate its affairs by emotional responses rather than logic, thus alienating support from its superiors.

Mrs. Canine Named to Head Church Group

Twenty-five members and one guest were in attendance when the Helpers Circle of the First Lutheran church met at the parish house for their regular meeting recently. Mrs. Paul Rothlisberger led the devotions

The president, Mrs. Don Leuthner, presided for the business session. Officers were elected for the coming year. Mrs. B. H. Canine is the new president with Mrs. Lillie Parker, vice president; Mrs. Harvey Burghard, secretary; Mrs. Bertha Motson, treasurer, and Mrs. Irene Brooker, class secretary.

Mrs. Ralph Lorentz was in charge of the entertainment Mrs Sing Morrison gave a reading on the "Last Leaf on the Tree," Miss Annabel Shaninberger read a story, "The Personal Episode."

The next meeting will be held Nov. 2 with Mrs. Canine, Mrs. Morrison, Mrs. Roy Webber, Miss Edith Binau and Mrs. Motson.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses at the close of the evening.

Beauty Hints Presented

Give your nails a rest and plan on not wearing nail polish one week out of the month. Beautify them by buffing into a high natural sheen. The effect is very attractive, very elegant.

A woman with a wide face, should blend her rouge closer to her nose, as it tends to decrease the width of the face.

Remember that beautiful hair is hair that is thoroughly clean. It is important to use a soft water shampoo, so that no dulling film from the effects of hard water is left on the hair.

Always remember that dark colors are slimming and a dark skirt will minimize large hips and a dark blouse will minimize a large bust

A wonderful complexion beautifier is to cream the face with a good cold cream, hop into a warm bath and relax for 15 minutes. The steam of the bathroom, plus the softening effect of the face cream, will stimulate the skin and leave it refreshed and glowing.

Dress Tricks Can Reduce Height

Simple tricks of dress will reduce the appearance of height if you are too tall for your boyfriend.

One of the most important for an unusually tall girl to remember is not to stoop, according to an article in the October issue of Good Housekeeping magazine.

"You're tall, and he's—not so tall," the article states in part. "You're in a tizzy about what to do. should you make a virtue of your height and accentuate it? That's fine for a girl modeling fashions, but not for a girl on a date. You need all the tricks of dress to cut your height."

"Do your hair soft and low, wear low heels, wide belts, flared skirts, shallow hats with horizontal lines. Don't wear either little-girl or slinky-siren duds; pick your most becoming Spend your get-ready time thinking about height. When he arrives, forget it. Don't stoop—that makes him conscious, not that you are tall, but that he is short. Don't suggest trading dances, that's his department, and a man, you know, likes to be master. Remember he picked you out, he's dating you. So be yourself, and have a good time"

Lunch Boxes Can Be Tasty

School children must have nourishing lunches to carry them through the day, but lunchbox-monotony will destroy their desire for lunch.

Menu suggestions to help keep your school children always eager for the lunches you pack are contained in the October issue of Good Housekeeping magazine, which lists:

"Raw-carrot and peanut-butter sandwich, apple butter sandwich on whole-wheat bread, celery hearts, baked custard (in custard cups), sponge cake, cocoa (in vacuum bottle), meat-and-vegetable salad in container), American cheese sandwiches, vegetable chowder, (in vacuum bottle), pear or apple, milk (in vacuum bottle), deviled-ham sandwiches, celery, carrot sticks, baked apple (in container), cookies, canned cream of tomato soup in vacuum bottle), bacon-and-hard boiled egg sandwich, cottage cheese-and-vegetable salad (in container), mixed vegetable salad (in container), pimento cheese sandwiches, banana, gingerbread and milk."

Mansfield Navy Center Wins 'Oscar'

Drill Activity Brings Recognition

Mansfield's U. S. Naval Reserve Training Center has won an "oscar" for its excellence in drill activity, officers of the center announced today.

A communication from the headquarters staff at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station today cited the center for maintaining its constant high point drill activity for a three-month period. It is the first center to win the "oscar" in this year's operational communication training, according to the citation received today.

Fifteen states have participated in the quarterly competition comprising the Ninth naval district. Competition was keen, according to the citation, and Hamilton, Ohio, Hannibal, Mo., and Indianapolis, Ind., crowded Mansfield for first place. Mansfield, however, never lost its top ranking during the three months of competition, July, August and September.

The "oscar" will be brought to Mansfield next Tuesday and presented by a member of the headquarters staff to one of two officers of the Mansfield center. Either Thomas B. Wright, commanding officer of the Organized Service Division, No. 195, or Lt. George Cunningham of New London, communications officer, will receive the award.

Arts Guild to Hold Classes In Prospect Park Pavilion

A change in plans for the annual children's art classes, to be sponsored here by the Mansfield Fine Arts Guild, was announced today by Thomas A. Zaugg, Guild president.

Classes will be held in the Prospect park pavilion instead of the Memorial building as previously announced.

"Since the Memorial building is primarily for the use of the service organizations, the trustees feel that it should not be used for other groups," Zaugg said. "The Prospect park association offered the use of its pavilion and we are very happy to get it."

Classes will start tomorrow morning at 9, when registrations will be taken. Following enrollment, the children will draw imaginary objects under the direction of Mrs. Denzil Schaaf, who has consented to supervise the art courses for the fall and winter season.

The classes are open to anyone, Zaugg said today.

Bare Union 'Coercion'

Galion Firm Calls Six Witnesses

GALION — The North Electric Manufacturing company today paraded six witnesses on the stand at the National Labor Relations Board hearing here in an effort to show that union organizers attempted to coerce plant workers.

Two women punch press operators testified that Edward J. Duck, organizer for the UAW-CIO union, approached them while they were entering the plant.

Highlight in the day's testimony came when Woodrow Crissinger, plant engineer said on cross examination: "I'm a scab and I'm proud of it."

Mrs. Margaret Baker said Duck told her to sign a union card or "you will not have any job in the morning."

Another woman, Mrs. Ruth McClaim, told the court she was approached but refused to sign on the advice of her husband.

Last plant witness to testify yesterday was Lloyd Bender, vice president of the North Electric company, who charged that pickets stoned and injured him three times. He also hinted that the union was guilty of burning one of the company trucks, smashing plant windows and in general damaging the company's property.

The first NLRB trial under the Taft-Hartley law where the charges of both union and management are consolidated will conclude a full week run today with the end still not in sight.

The charges are an outgrowth of a 72-day strike last year that was marked by violence and vandalism.

When today's testimony is over, the court will adjourn until Monday at 9 a. m.

UNION ENDS CASE

The union completed its portion of the case early yesterday when Edward J. Duck, union organizer, testified that he came to Galion to conduct a union campaign as the solicitation of a group of workers from the North Electric company in the summer f 1947.

He told the court that he arrived in Galion a few days before July 22, 1947, on which date he sent copies of notification to company officials and the NLRB that he had a majority of workers as members of his union, United Auto Workers (CIO).

Duck also charged that Harry S. Haney, a representative of the Labor Relations Institute of New York, once told him that the company would fight the UAW-CIO union and back an independent union.

R. K. McBerty, another vice president of the North Electric company, testified yesterday afternoon.

Get Ready To Pave Streets

Mansfield Asphalt Paving company employes today were preparing Overlook road and Fairlawn and Clifton avenues for concrete pouring operations, due to begin in about a week.

Work was held up during September by a cement plant strike. Today, Richard Stander, general manager of the paving firm, said that the needed cement was being shipped to Mansfield.

Ball Bearing Plant Burglarized

Burglary of the Ohio Ball Bearing company office on West Sixth street and theft of a purse from a parked car were investigated today by police.

Police found a door at the ball bearing plant open at 1:30 a. m., today. There were pry marks on the door. Nothing was reported stolen.

At 7:30 p. m. yesterday, Mrs. R. W. Reynolds, 180 Glessner avenue, reported that her purse had been taken from her unlocked car at Fourth and Adams streets. Mrs. Reynolds said she left the car at 6:15 p. m. and returned to find the purse gone at 7:30 p. m. The purse, valued at $17, contained two pairs of glasses, valued at $5, a $5 fountain pen and bank book and check book.

IWW Anarchy In 1917 Brought Peculiar Report By Frankfurter

WASHINGTON—At the time of the I. W. W.'s anarchy in Bisbee, Ariz., in 1917, Newton Baker, President Wilson's secretary of war, was yelling his head off for copped production. The constitution of the I. W. W. (Industrial Workers of the World said: "A struggle must go on until the workers take possession of the earth and the machinery of production and abolish the wage system."

Secretary of Labor Wilson later said that President Wilson had been very much disturbed by the I. W. W.'s interference with the production of copper.

Meanwhile, Tom Mooney and Warren Billings had been convicted of killing a lot of people with a time bomb at a preparedness parade in San Francisco. They were sentenced to death. Their sentences were commuted to life in prison under political pressure from Russia applied through Washington. Finally they were released from prison, although they were still legally guilty of the slaughter.

Theodore Roosevelt tore into Felix Frankfurter. He said he had failed to disclose material information about the Bisbee deportations in his report to President Wilson.

The Bisbee sheriff, Harry C. Wheeler, elected by the labor, justified his deportation of about 1,100 men on the ground that he had a statutory power and duty to use all necessary force in the presence of a threat to the peace. Most of them were Mexican villistas and German and Austrian enemy aliens.

Woodrow Wilson's heart bled for the "labor vote" but he wanted copper for his war to make the world safe for democracy. And, after the sheriff and his deputized vigilantes had shipped the anarchists over into the desert at Columbus, N. M., in boxcars, President Wilson took a very sanctimonious view of the outrage.

The other Wilson, secretary of labor, was put up to the stupid mistake of comparing this deportation to the deportations of Belgian and French women, children and male crocks from their ancient homes by the German invaders.

That made the sheriff good and sore, after he had made it possible to produce the copper for Woodrow. Sheriff Wheeler slammed this hypocrisy right back.

Most of the deportees from Bisbee were strangers, not home-loving patriots being dispossessed, and 80 per cent were enemy aliens. The Bisbee deportation was executed by the resident people and the deportees were invaders and able-bodied males, mainly riotous roughnecks.

After Felix Frankfurter had done his stuff as counsel for a "mediation commission," he wrote a report which Theodore Roosevelt attacked. On Dec. 19, 1917, T. R. wrote to Frankfurter that " you are taking on behalf of the administration an attitude which seems to me to be fundamentally that of Trotsky and other Bolsheviki leaders in Russia. Your report on the Bisbee deportation is as thoroughly misleading a document as could be written on the subject. No official, writing on behalf of the President, is to be excused for failure to know and clearly to set forth that the I. W. W. is a criminal organization . . ."

Theater's Off-Stage Anecdotes Rate With the Best In Plays

Broadway Stardust—It happened during one of the very few performances last week of Groucho Marx's "Time for Elizabeth" . . . Katharine Alexander, One Of The Best (in the role of wife to the retired Otto Kruger), said she was going to cook for the first time in 20 years. Otto doubted that she still knew how.

"I notice," she fluffed, "you didn't complain the first night!"

This "broke up" both of them and they tried to suppress their laughter. The audience caught on to the "flub" and howled with them.

Kruger finally straightened out his face and threw her the correct line: "No, my dear, I didn't complain the first YEAR!"

★

Backstage at the Empire Theater they are still chuckling over the experience "Life with Mother" had at its Detroit opening.

The citizens there, unaccustomed perhaps to thittah - premyahs, stood after the final curtain and shouted: "Encore! Encore!"

★

Robert Morley, the star and co-author of the hit, "Edward, My Son" (at the Beck), flips a coin during one scene—to determine whether he should invite a shadowing detective (in the street) up to his mistress's flat. . . . Last Saturday night he dropped the coin, which rolled into the footlights. . . . "What is it?" Morley asked . . . "Heads!" said Leueen McGrath, giving the written line. "Hmmm," ad-quipped the star. "What eyesight!"

★

Al Woods, one of Broadway's top producers in the yesteryear, was famed for giving his players valuable tokens of his fondness. After one Christmas party three actresses compared gifts.

"He gave me," said the first, "a valuable diamond ring."

"I got a lovely ruby brooch!" said the second.

"He gave me," appreciated the third, "a hit show."

We trust all runs smoothly at the Imperial Theatre with "Annie Get Your Gun," but the cast could tell you about the longest ride Ethel Merman ever took. . . . It happened on that motorbike—for the Big Scene of the stunt which makes the Hero jealous. . . . You know, Ethel all bespangled and gorgeous—the music fast-and-forte—her rifle on a rifling.

Well, during the Philly tryout a hot shell fell on the bike seat long before the blackout—and you can bet she still feels it.

★

Morris Gest (another Broadway Great) once saw a youngster named Ina Claire doing imitations. He brought her to David Belasco for an audition. Ina, very nervous, just managed to remember the lines Belasco (the Billy Rose of his time) gave her. . . . In the middle of her opening oration Belasco screamed at her for being "so stiff." She fell in a faint. . . . Belasco held her in his arms as she revived. "Are you all right?" he purred.

"Oh, yes, Mr. Belasco, thank you," Ina trembled.

"Then," scolded Broadway's top showman, "what are we doing here on the floor when we should be rehearsing?"

★

Alexander Woollcott, whose witty criticisms haven't been matched yet, was lazying on a park bench one afternoon when a pesty child proceeded to bother him. . . . Turning to the tot's mother (and petting the brat), he said: "Madam, what do you call this dear little child?"

"Ethel," the beaming parent replied.

"Then," Woollcott fang'd, "please call her!"

Appleseed Pupil Wins Poster Prize

'Fire Demon' Picked Early Today

Three eighth grade students walked away with the prizes in the Fire Prevention week poster contest which was judged at the Chamber of Commerce rooms last night.

Lewis Pfister, 62 Glenwood boulevards, won the first prize of $10. Lewis attends Johnny Appleseed junior high school. Second prize of $5 was awarded to Margo King, 755 Park avenue west, and third prize of $2 went to Charles Blank, 79 Newlon place. Both Margo and Charles are in the eighth grade at St. Peter's parochial school.

The posters were judged on the basis of color combination, theme, and impact, the latter being determined on the basis of how well the idea was presented.

George Bennett, commercial artist; H. R. McBride, portrait artist; and W. G. Schultz, Fire Prevention week committee chairman, judged the posters.

Schultz announced that all entries for the children's fire department soapbox contest must be turned in to Central station by tomorrow noon.

Prizes in the contest include a $25 wood carving set for first place, a $10 camera for second, and a $5 airplane kit for third. In addition the first four prize winners will receive a free trip to the Ohio State-Michigan football game as the guests of Fire Chief L. J. Steele.

'DEMON' PICKED

Today's fire demon contest was over in a hurry. At 7:45 this morning "fire demon" Orlo L. Smith was identified by Caroline Miller, ninth grader at Johnny Appleseed junior high school. Smith, who lives at 606 Bigelow road was on the bus going to work when Miss Miller spotted him.

Yesterday's "fire demon" wasn't identified until 1:45 p. m. Robert Walsh of 73 South Main street, identified C. J. Solomon as the "demon" when Solomon made a trip to the courthouse. Walsh won the day's fire extinguisher.

The 18 red-tied Mansfielders will make their last appearance tomorrow. The last fire extinguisher will go to the first person to ask the designated one, "Are you the fire demon for today?"

Climaxing the week's activities will be a parade at 7:30 p. m. Saturday. At the head of the parade will ride the "Fifth Horseman of the Apocalypse—fire," dressed as a skeleton in a flaming red robe. Prizes of $25, $10, and $5 will be awarded for the best floats entered in the parade.

County Gets Road Funds

Richland county and its subdivisions will receive $46,365 in the third distribution of 1948 auto license fees, Edward T. Fogo, state registrar of motor vehicles, said today.

The total state distribution will amount to $4,166,817, more than $1,000,000 ahead of allocations last year from the auto tag fund.

EAGER READERS—Students at Terman school with their teacher, Mrs. Helen Light, line up outside the bookmobile in front of the school. Books in hand, they wait to return their last selection, and borrow new books as the bookmobile makes its second visit of the year to the school.

Bookmobile Day Big One For 23 Pupils

By EILEEN DEWHURST

Bookmobile day is an important day on the calendar at the one-room Terman school north of Mansfield.

The big book truck visits the little school only once in two weeks—on Tuesdays. This is the first year it has called at the school.

In former years a box of books was brought to the school from the Mansfield library twice a year. The library was able only to send about 20 books at a time, not even one book for each of the 23 pupils.

Since Terman school is one of the few one-room schools, which still teaches all eight grades, this meant that there were only two or three books which were suitable for the readers in each grade.

Under the present system, each child is permitted to borrow one book each time the bookmobile makes a visit. The book is returned when the traveling library makes its next trip to the school.

Mrs. Lois Pennell, county librarian, hopes that it will soon be possible to lend two books to each child. The traveling library recently completed its first round of visits to the schools, and the number of books it carries has been greatly decreased because the books loaned out have not yet been returned. Normally, the bookmobile carries more than 2,000 books.

MUST HAVE CARDS

Each child who wants to borrow a book from the bookmobile must have a library card. The application for this card must be signed by the child's parents.

"This makes each child responsible for the book he borrows," Mrs. Pennell explained. "When the library sent out a box of books, the teacher was responsible for the whole collection."

Mrs. Helen Light, teacher at Terman school, was as enthusiastic as her students about the new system. "We only have a few books in the school library," she said, "and they are mostly reference books, so the bookmobile visits mean a lot to the children."

It was recess time when the bookmobile made its visit to the school. The children tumbled out of the schoolhouse and crowded into the large van to choose the book which would be theirs for the next two weeks.

Western and animal stories were choice of most of the students. But one older girl chose a large volume of poetry. "I like poetry and this book is big; it should last for two weeks," she explained.

Most of the students said they finished their books before the two weeks were up and wished that the bookmobile could come more often.

But with 24 schools to visit, 18 of them for the first time this year, Mrs. Pennell is pretty busy with her present schedule.

Boys' Trip South Ends At Butler

The plans of four teen-age Mansfield boys to go to Florida for the winter were thwarted today by the parents of two of the youths who found them, chilled, wet and hungry, walking along the B. and O. tracks between Butler and Ankenytown.

Mrs. John J. Morganstern, 462 Daisy street, reported shortly before noon today that she and her husband had discovered the youths early today on a hunch that the boys might be following the railroad to Florida.

"I think they've got it out of their systems now," the relieved mother commented. "They've been thinking about this trip for about two years but I guess they realize now that it wasn't so easy as it sounded."

The mother related that the boys had slept in a barn last night near Butler. Every one of them was famished today.

The missing boys were: David Morganstern, 15, his brother, Joseph, 13; Bud Kent, 13, of 36 Orchard street, and Fred Bauer jr., 15, of 535 Lily street.

The demonstration is an activity of the Gorman-Rupp company of Mansfield in connection with the two-day convention of the Ohio section of the American Water Works association. Three pumps, one each at 10, 20 and 30 foot levels, are in operation. The pumps are placed on a tower that to approaching traffic on Park avenue west appears to be part of the city's towering flagpole.

Sportsmen Protest To State

County Without Officer 4 Months

Failure of the Ohio Division of Conservation and Natural Resources to make an immediate appointment of a new Richland county game protector was vigorously condemned at a meeting of the Richland County Fish and Game association last night.

The association voted that a request for action be sent to the state division, followed by a visit to the Columbus office of a committee to press the demand. James F. Burkhart, association president, and Gus Miller were named to serve on the committee.

Richland county has been without the services of a game protector since the retirement of C. I. Kimmel last June. Association members who voiced protests last night expressed the belief that fish and game law violations are on the increase in the county.

Although the county is being given part-time enforcement service by game wardens in adjoining counties, the opinion was expressed by several speakers that the service is inadequate.

RAPS CLOSING

The same committee was empowered to protest the closing to hunters and fishermen of a portion of the area around the Pleasant Hill dam.

Following a round-table discussion of the need for a home site for the association, the president was instructed to appoint a committee of three to investigate the matter.

The meeting was the first of the 1948-49 season. It was held at North Lake park pavilion. Regular meetings will be continued on the first Thursday of each month.

At the conclusion of the business session, former Prosecutor Harold T. Lutz gave an informative talk on conservation practices in Germany. Lutz, who had opportunity to observe the German system while he was in army service, explained that German law requires the planting of a tree whenever one is cut.

Chiefly by this method, he stated, the Germans preserve their forests and wildlife.

John C. Friday, former association president, also spoke briefly on the history of the organization.

Child Study Program Set

A study of child welfare needs in Richland county will be presented to the Richland county Child Welfare council next Thursday at 7:30 p. m. in the American Legion assembly room.

Vernon Lawrence, chairman of the group, said the state officials who handled the survey would meet with the council at that time to go over an 80-page report.

The state officials include Mrs. Virginia Ferguson, assistant supervisor of field services, who made the survey, assisted by Miss Mary Paumier, child welfare consultant, Henry J. Robison, chief of the division of social administration, and John R. Ferguson, head of children's services.

Union Backs Chest Drive

The members of Delano Lodge 169 of the United Steel Workers of America unanimously endorsed the Mansfield Community Chest drive at their regular meeting last night.

Leonard Hansrote, president of the union, explained that both hourly rate and salaried employes at the Empire Steel company have a civic fund from which contributions to health and welfare work in the city are made.

The endorsement of the drive means that a contribution to the Community Chest can be made from this fund.

Bromfield Unusual Farmer, Life Magazine Story Says

"The only farmer in America who has written two dozen books, won a Pulitzer prize, and habitually has breakfast in bed."

That's the way Life magazine describes Louis Bromfield, Richland county author-farmer. An eight-page story on Bromfield appears in the Oct. 11 issue of the magazine

The Life author points out that Bromfield is no simple man of the soil. Life at Malabar is not meager. Canned goods for the family home are bought from a wholesale grocery firm, cigarets are purchased in cases of 100 cartons, and bath towels are two yards long and a yard wide.

The article goes on to say that while Bromfield says he has been a farmer all his life, it took him a little longer than most farmers to start farming, 41 years in fact.

Bromfield bought 1,000-acre Malabar farm in Pleasant Valley 10 years ago and has become one of America's most famous farmers and champions of the farm as a way of life, according to the author, John Bainbridge.

Discussing the numerous guests who visit the Bromfield farm, Life says that Humphrey Bogart and Lauren Bacall who were married there were probably the most publicized. Dr. Paul Lee of Lucas, husband of Virginia Lee, News-Journal correspondent, gave the famous couple their blood tests.

In describing Bromfield's early life, the article tells how he was born and reared in Mansfield and got his first taste of farm life on his grandfather's farm.

Bromfield joined the French army as an ambulance driver during World War 1, then became a newspaperman, editor of a musical magazine, advertising manager of a book-publishing firm, a successful novelist, and finally a farmer.

He spent much of his time in Europe until the fall of 1938 when he began to transform the virtual wasteland of Malabar into a model farm.

If Baseball Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler's face appears red to Cleveland fans today it won't be because of the cold.

Before yesterday's game a clear-the-field edict blared over the public address system at Braves field: "All photographers and newspapermen are asked to leave by order of Commissioner Landis."

All eyes turned involuntarily to the commissioner, whose usually composed face had "Who dat?" written all over it.

★

Pitcher Bob Lemon of Cleveland is a co-holder of a series fielding record.

His three putouts in yesterday's 4-to-1 Indian triumph ties the feat accomplished by Nick Altrock of the 1906 White Sox and Jim Vaughn of the 1918 Cubs.

★

Gene Bearden, who will twirl today for Lou Boudreau and Co., must have a rubber arm.

The rookie lefthander pitched batting practice yesterday and then rounded out his pre-assignment workout by shagging flies.

★

For the first time in history a loss has been chalked up against the Boston Braves in world series competition.

Yesterday's defeat was the first for the Bostonians in six series games played.

★

Lou Boudreau had the honor of scoring his team's first run in the series. Cleveland's "one-man-gang" rode home from second on Joe Gordon's smash to left in the fourth, ending a 12-inning famine by the Ohioans.

Shelby's Football Coach Hunts For Backfield Combo

By JOHN PATRICK

SHELBY—Old Mother Hubbard had nothing on Coach Bill Wilkins. All she was trying to find was a bone for her dog, while Bill is frantically seeking replacements for his injury-riddled Whippet eleven.

The Whippets oppose the crack Bucyrus Redmen tonight in Bucyrus. To further the Shelby mentors worries will be those two shifty runners and passers Bill and Dick Kibler. The Kibler twins, listed among Ohio's top ground gainers add confusion to the opponents since one passes left-handed and the other tosses them right-handed.

The Bucyrus line is big and has plenty of experience In the past league games they have provided ample holes for the fast Red backfield.

Two more of the Whippet regulars have been sidelined during the past week. Stan Cronenwett and Jim Berry have been out of the line-up all week. Don Wetz has also been taking it easy due to a cracked bone in his index finger.

Chuck Knapp who replaced quarterback Jerry Dennis and Jerry Wilson will also be out of the line-up because of injuries suffered in the Galion tilt.

Wilkins has been shifting his backfield around all week in an effort to fill the gaps caused by these injuries His tentative line-up shows Phillips, Moore, Fackler and either Wetz or Nothacker in the backfield.

New Yorkers Confer With Coach Simmons

CLEVELAND —(UP)— The New York Yankees who are looking for a manager were conferring today with Al Simmons, Philadelphia Athletics coach, a man who would like to run his own club.

Neither President Dan Topping nor general manager George Weiss would say just what they were talking to Simmons about.

Rookie Lefty Goes Today For Indians

By JACK HAND

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Cleveland opens its arms to its first world series since 1920 today with a record turnout of 80,000 due to welcome home the Indians who won the pennant on the road and are returning all square with the Boston Braves after splitting two games at Braves field.

It looked for a while as if the welcoming party might have to wait, because the teams were late leaving Boston last night.

To make the situation more doubtful, scattered showers were forecast today. It rained here last night and turned cold.

Gene Bearden, the southpaw who tamed the Boston Red Sox in the pennant playoff, is ready to face Vern Bickford, another war veteran, in a battle of rookie pitchers

SUPPORT TRIBE

American leaguers rushed to the support of the Indians after they clubbed Warren Spahn for a 4-1 victory behind Bob Lemon in yesterday's loosely played second game. As a result of the Cleveland triumph, they now are topheavy favorites to win the series.

Playing the percentages to the hilt, Billy Southworth will shake up his lineup and batting order, trying to get more righthanded power into action against the southpaw Bearden.

Earl Torgenson will come out of the starting order, with Frank McCormick, a veteran righthanded batter, playing first base. Bruce Conatser, a rookie draftee finishing his first year with a .278 average, goes to center and Mike McCormick moves over to left. That shoves Marv Rickert, Jeff Heath's sub, to the bench. Even if the home-run hitting Heath hadn't broken his ankle in the last week of the season, that would have been Southworth's move.

Phil Masi, generally considered the Braves' No. 1 receiver, takes the place of Bill Salkeld, who goes out because he, too, is a left-handed swinger.

ONLY ONE CHANCE

Manager Lou Boudreau of the Indians has been making only one change of late with the pitching. Yesterday he had Allie Clark in right instead of Wally Judnick. In the late innings, after Spahn had given way to righthanders, Red Barrett and Nels Potter, he called on Bob Kennedy, a right hand swinger, who delivered a run-scoring single in the ninth.

Judnich goes back to right against Bickford, but Boss Lou plans no other shifts except his pitcher.

Boudreau was sensational in the second game with his infield play and hitting to back up the steady chucking of Lemon

He hit one to the right field corner for a double that started the Indians rolling to a two-run rally in the fourth.

Boudreau's double was followed by singles by Joe Gordon and Larry Doby. Each banged home a run to the dismay of a chilled crowd of 39,633

Even in the first inning, when Boston scored its lone run on Gordon's error and successive singles by Torgeson and Bob Elliott, Boudreau was the man of the hour.

PULL PICKOFF

The Tribe's famous pickoff play, usually worked with Bobby Feller pitching and Boudreau at short was pulled by Lemon and Boudreau

In the fifth, after Dale Mitchell singled and was bunted to second, Boudreau sizzled a single through Spahn's legs, scoring Mitchell That was all for Spahn, who was replaced by Barrett.

The Braves kept nicking Lemon, getting at least one hit every inning except the fifth and seventh However they never made more than one in the same frame after the first.

Ram Football Team Plays at Rittman

The Mansfield Madison Rams should have little trouble moving to their 10th straight football victory tonight when they play at Rittman.

The Rams closed the 1947 season under Coach Jeff DeHaven with seven consecutive wins. They have won two in a row under the tutelage of Coach Ennis Walker this year.

Last week, the Rams were trailing Orrville 19-12 in the last quarter when the Orrville lights failed. The game has since been declared no contest keeping the Madison's record unblemished.

Thirty-three members of the Ram squad were scheduled to leave for Rittman at 5 p. m. today. However, Walker plans to rely on the same 11 starters who opened last week against Orrville.

Rittman won its opener but then fell before Orrville, one of the state's tougher small schools, 41 to 0. Last week, Rittman led Kent high school for more than a half before losing in the final period, 7 to 6. Walker dashed 63 yards for the Rittman TD early in the second heat.

Madison rapped Rittman, 25 to 7, in 1947.

Ram Reserves Take Second

Coach Blaine Dowler's Madison reserves won their first football game of the season defeating the Shelby seconds here yesterday afternoon, 7 to 0.

The Ram scrubs pushed across their lone score in the last quarter. W. Stevens counted on a quarterback sneak and Hartman kicked the extra point.

With the line showing to good advantage on defense, the Rams made eight first downs to five for the visitors. Once the Madison lads held Shelby inside the ten with first down and goal to go.

Senior High Battles at Portsmouth

Tyger Team Seeks Third Win In Row

PORTSMOUTH — Trail to a third straight 1948 triumph for the current edition of Mansfield Senior high football Tygers will be a bit rocky tonight.

The Bengals of Coach Augie Morningstar are scheduled to go against the Portsmouth high school Trojans under the Portsmouth floodlights. Last year, Mansfield surprised with a 23-to-7 victory and the Trojans are looking for revenge.

Although the Portsmouth crew lacks forward wall experience, the linemen outweigh the Bengals 15 pounds to the man. That fact plus the Tygers' defensive weakness makes the Ohio river boys a pregame favorite.

Portsmouth has shown plenty of power in taking two of three 1947 games. The Trojans began with a 25-to-7 win over Columbus Aquinas and then fell before Middletown, 12 to 0. Last week, Portsmouth came from behind twice to down Springfield, 20-19.

The Portsmouth lineup boasts five lettermen, headed by Dave Gambill and Don Mauk, a pair of speedy backs. Dave Flinders, a 170-pound fullback, has power to burn through the middle of the line and is a fine defensive man. Gambill's passes to six-footer Tom Dickson also paid off against Springfield.

Coach Carl Meadows of the Trojans has little reserve strength and that fact may aid the Tygers. Morningstar has many replacements, especially in the backfield.

The 55-man Tyger squad left Mansfield at 8 a. m. and was scheduled to lunch in Circleville. Senior high will stay overnight in Chillicothe and see the Ohio State-Iowa game in Columbus tomorrow before returning to Mansfield.

Northwestern and California Favored In Nation's Top College Grid Games

NEW YORK—(AP)—Northwestern and California, potential Rose bowl foes, were favored today to win Saturday's headliners on a weekend collegiate football scheduled packed with dynamite.

Nine major intersectional games, opening with three tonight, and bloodletting sectional clashes around the nation carry the bowl hopes of dozens of budding football giants.

In a critical Big Nine game, unbeaten Northwestern was rated over unbeaten Minnesota, pre-season favorite to represent the midwest in the Rose bowl. Northwestern's hard-hitting Wildcats thumped Purdue last week, 20 to 0, but Minnesota's rock-ribbed line figured to present a far stiffer test.

California, featuring power rather than passing from its potent T formation, was a favorite over invading Wisconsin in another one of those west coast-Big Nine duels which have proved disastrous for the west so far this season. The Big Nine has won four, lost none.

Opening up tonight are Villanova at Miami, San Francisco at Detroit and Duquesne at Alabama.

Six more intersectional contests follow on Saturday with Rice at Southern California, Army at Illinois, Texas Christian at Indiana, Texas A. and M. at Louisiana State, and Southern Methodist at Missouri in addition to the Wisconsin-California game.

Southern California, trounced by Ohio State last week; Army, Indiana, L. S. U. and Southern Methodist are favored.

In other Big Nine conference games, Ohio State was held at 13½ over Iowa at Ohio State with Michigan an even bet at Purdue. Among the midwest's independent powers, Notre Dame was a big favorite to defeat Michigan State at South Bend and Marquette was an even bigger favorite against St. Louis.

EVERYONE'S TALKING

In the south everybody's talking about North Carolina and Georgia Tech. North Carolina plays at Wake Forest in a southern conference game mindful of an upset by the Deacons last year.

The southeast's conference games pit Auburn at Florida, Kentucky an underdog at Georgia and Vanderbilt at Mississippi with ole Miss favored by three.

Best of the remaining games involving Southern conference schools is Navy at Duke with the Blue Devils favored to slap the Middies with their third straight defeat.

Tops in the east are two virtual tossups, Columbia at Yale and Harvard at Cornell.

Revamped Holy Cross plays at Dartmouth, Pennsylvania tackles Princeton, and Penn State plays at Syracuse in other games of major importance.

Cuff Stuff

By Fred Tharp
(News-Journal Sports Editor)

AS WE'VE SAID before all of this football stuff is somewhat silly right in the midst of the Cleveland Indians' participation in the 1948 World series . . . But it's here and we're committed to blow smoke rings with that prognosticaton stogie . . . It seems that the readers of this piece need something to chide the Stuffer about and from the looks of the below they shall have plenty of ammunition. Last week (we'd rather not mention it) we had 57 right, 20 wrong and five ties . . . Making 123-39-11 for the season . . . Only once have we missed on local high school teams so we shall start there again. . . . Senior high over Portsmouth and Madison over Rittman . . . The Tygers have to get better . . . However, if they play the way they have in the first three games, that victory guess is mighty shaky. . . . So on to the college gridirons:

Ray Robinson Inks Contract

NEW YORK — (AP) — The tournament of champions today had Welterweight Champion Ray Robinson's signature on a contract to fight Middleweight Steve Belloise. And they had pictures and witnesses to prove it, too.

Sugar Ray signed the document last night at the Harlem offices of "Ray Robinson Enterprises" in the presence of Manager George Gainsford, officials of the T. of C., newspapermen and photographers.

The articles call for the welter boss to receive a guarantee of $20,000 or the privilege of taking 35 per cent of the gate, and the same cut of radio, television and movie money, if any. The bout will be a ten-rounder at the Jersey City, N. J., armory, Dec. 2.

Belloise is to receive a $20,000 guarantee, too, or the privilege of 27½ per cent of the receipts.

Appleseeders Win 5th Grid Contest, 27 to 0

MT. VERNON Mansfield Johnny Appleseed junior high school moved to its fifth straight football victory yesterday, defeating the Mt. Vernon reserves, 27-0.

After the Pioneers scored their fourth touchdown on the first play of the second half, Coach Jimmy Lymper flooded the field with subs during the remainder of the contest. Bull Huber got that counter on a double reverse on the kick-off. He streaked 95 yards without a Mt. Vernon player coming near.

The Pioneers opened the scoring in the first quarter when Bud Montgomery threw a 30-yard running pass to Joe Diemer who went 25 additional yards to score. Johnny Auer counted twice in the second heat on runs of 10 and 25 yards. Both capped long drives.

Freddie Zahn kicked three of four extra points.

Wes Fesler Sings Right Half Blues

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Coach Wesley Fesler of the Ohio State university football team, which is about to open its Western conference season against Iowa, is singing those "Right Halfback Blues."

For a while right ends were the thing he was shortest of, today it's right halfbacks. This is their status:

(A)—Alex Verdova of Lakewood has a pulled muscle somewhere in or about his ribs and just shouldn't play Saturday. He's on the varsity.

(B)—Mike Cannavino of Cleveland still isn't completely recovered from injuries suffered last week. He's second string.

(C)—Bob Demmel of Fremont, ditto. He's third string. He fell down the hall stairs of his rooming house Wednesday night and it took four stitches to get his scalp back together.

DEPENDS ON DAVE

That left Fesler depending on Dave Bonnie of Columbus, who hasn't seen action because of a thigh injury the first week of practice. Karl Sturtz of Coshocton will be Bonnie's replacement, with Dick Ellwood of Dover another possibility.

Fesler also could use Rod Swinehart of Wooster on defense, but he belongs on the other side for offense.

Otherwise, the lineup that started the Southern California game last week likely will start against Iowa, except for Jerry Krall of Toledo at left half instead of Jim Clark of Columbus.

Official Ruling

CHICAGO—(INS)—The death of Chicago Cardinal tackle Stan Mauldin was officially recorded today as caused by coronary thrombosis.

Jack Hanrahan Goes Wild, Blasts Big 709 at Colony

Commercial B bowlers, spotlighted by Jack Hanrahan, put on the season's top display of maple splattering last night at the Colony alleys.

Rolling in the leadoff position for Mansfield Rug, Hanrahan smashed all seasonal individual records. He counted a big 709 after getting off well with a 267. Hanrahan faded, if it could be called that, to 213 and 229 on his next two games.

Al Stirtzinger, Rose Bowl, chopped in next with 207-222-191—620 and Reggie Bookman, Mansfield Rug, had 187-222-204—613. Other honor roll totals follow: Joe DeYarmon, Rose Bowl, 198-227-182—607; Leo Yuncker, Zitzer's, 180-200-224—604; Harold Freeze, Dearman Transportation, 175-225-200—600, and Art Hilborn, Yuncker's, 198-208-194—600.

Just missing the charmed group was J. Hoff, 591, and Carl Heilman, 582. Hoff had games of 213 and 206. Joe Harrod had a 236 and Bart Haley, 224. Frank Burton hit the hard luck circle. He got very badly with a 125 and then finished with 208 and 201 for 534.

Dearman's, Yuncker's and Mansfield Rug are tied for the league lead. The latter team fractured 2,900 pins in winning three straight from Dearman's last night.

★

Donna Schuster joined in the Colony alleys maple roasting with the top female score of the season. Donna, bowling for Ohio Sport Center in the Women's Commercial "A" circuit, had 206-187-192—585. Mary McMullen, Safety Cabs, had 172-165-208—545; Helen Wilhelm, Lemley Cleaners, 155-160-222—537, and Dot McDevitt, Sport Center, 165-199-181—535.

One other 200 score was turned in by Evelyn Marshman. She had a 201.

PD's Bar, Frosted Foods, Sport Center and Outlet Furs are tied for first. Sport Center had 2,447 but lost two of three to PD's.

★

Competing in the Women's Industrial loop, Janice Inscore had 158-133-157—448. Audrey Campbell chipped in with a 444 and Mary Jameson had 434.

★

Joe Harrod led the Tappan Stove circuit with 175-177-202—554 followed by Les Snasky with 203-167-181—551. Getting a big 244 middle game, George Condos was third with 540. His other games were 161 and 135. Walter Singer had a 216.

★

Lead in the Amvet league went to J. Rizzo, A. B. Grafton, with 180-180-160—520. R. Huffman had a 477 and Dick Underwood, 470.

Also bowling at Richland Recreation was the Westinghouse "B" league. J. Heckert had 497 and F. Milem 494. F. Beal was the leader, however, with a 159-161-191—511.

Piles Are Never "Mild"

DANGER IN NEGLECT

No one should ever think of piles (hemorrhoids) as a "mild" disorder.

Although they may seem a "mild" ailment, especially when not giving pain or inconvenience, piles are in fact tumor formation without tendency to heal themselves; instead, they are likely, if neglected, to keep increasing in size, involving more and more of the rectal area.

Even a so-called "mild" case may be expected to undermine one's health, by inviting predisposing to or aggravating other ailments, such as: indigestion, biliousness, stomach trouble, constipation, headaches, pain in back and down the legs, secondary anemia with its rundown tired feeling, and general nervous irritability.

Removal of piles is the only permanent relief—written guarantee. My method produces little or no discomfort, does not require the use of knife or drugs, and seldom is the patient required to lose any time from work or other duties.

Why not call and learn of this method? The examination is free.

Declares Christianity Must Serve Men or Step Aside

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Christianity must push forward with a positive program to meet world needs or it will be moved more and more to the sidelines, a leading missionary figure said Thursday.

"Christians must either serve the needs of all God's men better than the communists or else be prepared to yield ground to them," said Dr. Ralph E. Diffendorfer of New York. "The issue is that clear."

Diffendorfer, executive secretary of the Methodist church's foreign missions division, is the man who conceived the idea of a world mission assembly by every major protestant denomination. His speech opened second-day activities at the assembly, largest Protestant gathering in 23 years and the first joint appeal by Protestant churches for support of a related missionary program.

"Either we are going to rise to the opportunities that are before us today," Diffendorfer said in a prepared address, "or we are going to be moved increasingly to the sidelines since other forces and agencies are coming forward with positive programs to meet the world's needs."

"The Soviet idea," he warned, "is the one that speaks directly to the problems of Asia, speaks to the hungry and landless, the debt-ridden and the oppressed."

The Christian church, Diffendorfer continued, must "see to it that the deeper needs of men are met."

Rep. Walter H. Judd (R-Minn.), last night's featured speaker, warned that Christians must be prepared to go underground in Asia if communists gain control there.

If the communists win Asia, christians would be in the same position they were in the days of ancient Rome, said Judd, a former China missionary and a member of the house foreign relations committee.

Brothers Finally Meet Each Other

HALIFAX, N. S. — (AP) — Two brothers, both past 60, met here yesterday for the first time.

Some time ago, John F. Glendon of San Francisco, Calif., addressed a letter to "James Glendon, Halifax" and the meeting resulted. The two had never met because of a family break-up that sent John into a foundling home at the age of two.

AKRON — (AP) — After a considerable post-war output of consumer goods, production of Goodyear Aircraft corporation has shifted back to the filling of military orders, T. A. Knowles, vice president of the tire firm subsidiary, said Thursday.

Home Will Be U. S. Shrine

CARROLLTON — (NNS) — The home of the "fighting McCooks," who gave 29 men to the armed forces of their country, will become a state shrine this Sunday.

An address by Governor Herbert and a talk by Mrs. Katharine McCook Knox, of Washington, will feature the dedicatory program arranged by the Ohio Archaeological and Historical society, which will control the new museum.

The McCook family is known as the one which gave more men to the service of its country than any other in the United States. The home at Carrollton was built in 1842 by Daniel McCook. He and his eight sons and his brother John's five sons fought in the Civil war, and since that time descendants have fought in every war of the United States.
